WESTERN HILLS HIGH SCHOOL

CINCINNATI, OHIO

PUBLISHED BY THE WESTERN HILLS ANNUAL STAFF

Through the centuries, the artists and poets of Japan have captured in their works that quality which is the essence of beauty in life – individuality. No irrelevant details confuse their designs. The artist with his brush and the haiku poet with his pen abstract from the world's complexity and set before their viewer a single, simple object for contemplation. Thus, they make their student aware of the unique identity of the subject; and he finally realizes that he, too, has a unique personality.

As I light the lamp, behold . . . to every single doll its own real shadow

TO BE "A SINGLE DOLL WITH ITS OWN REAL SHADOW"—to stand alone in the midst of the crowd . . . to maintain one's own identity in an age of automation . . . to speak one's own thoughts and make one's own decisions . . . this is the challenge for the student today. At Western Hills, with its crowded halls and the necessary demands on the student body as a unit, a pupil may be quite comfortable to drift with the mob, but he will find there is more satisfaction in relying on his own ingenuity.

If he searches within himself to find what he believes, what he enjoys, what he does well, the knowledge will lead him to understand the importance of being himself; he will find the happiness of following his own way, of being "A single doll with its own real shadow."

Have you caught a vision and held it with courage . . .
Dared to assert your convictions before all the world?

Is isn't often that a high school senior gets to perform college level research as did Charles Land when he studied the leukemia virus at the Indiana University Science Student Institute last summer.

Expressing his belief in Christian principles, Dohrman Byers presented a forceful sermon before his attentive congregation on a Youth Sunday.

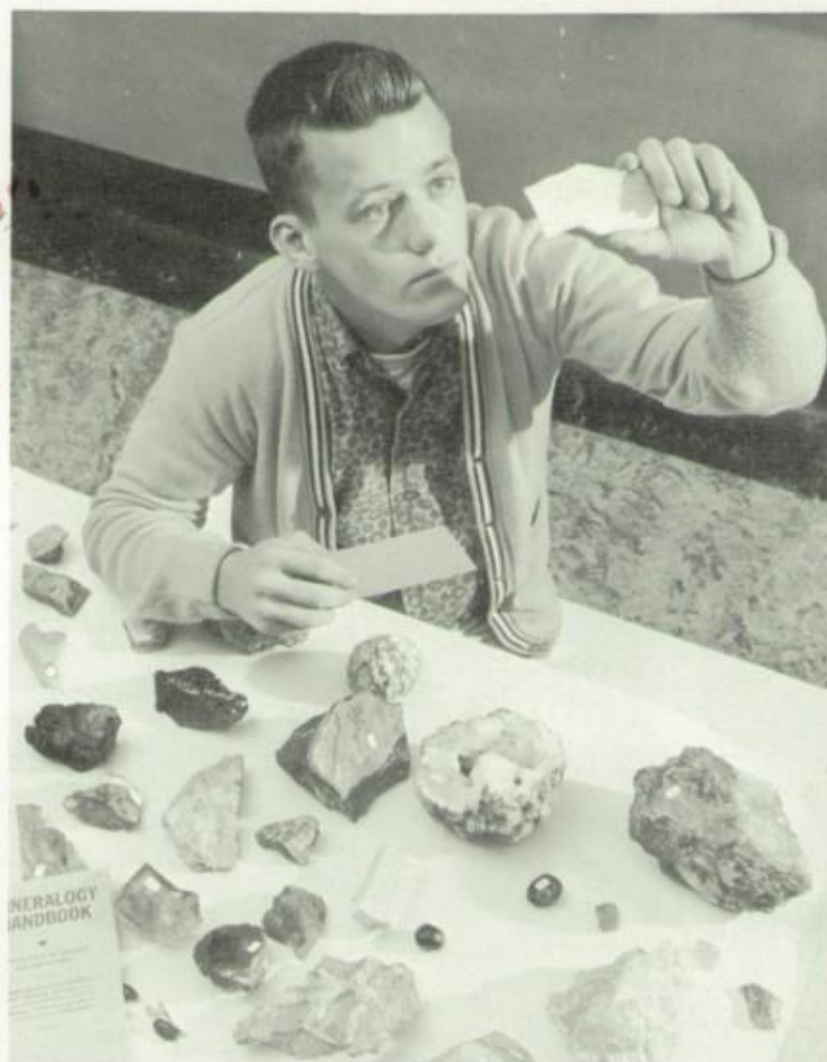

A strong feeling against discrimination compelled Betsy Beck to join the Civil march in Washington D. C. last summer.

Is your day
alive with smiling moments . . .
with things that you alone enjoy?

For senior, Chuck Koenig, the earth on which he lives reveals countless exciting stories in its interesting and unusual rock formations.

Playing basketball wears most people out, but Larry Wyenandt plays and practices for fun and relaxation.

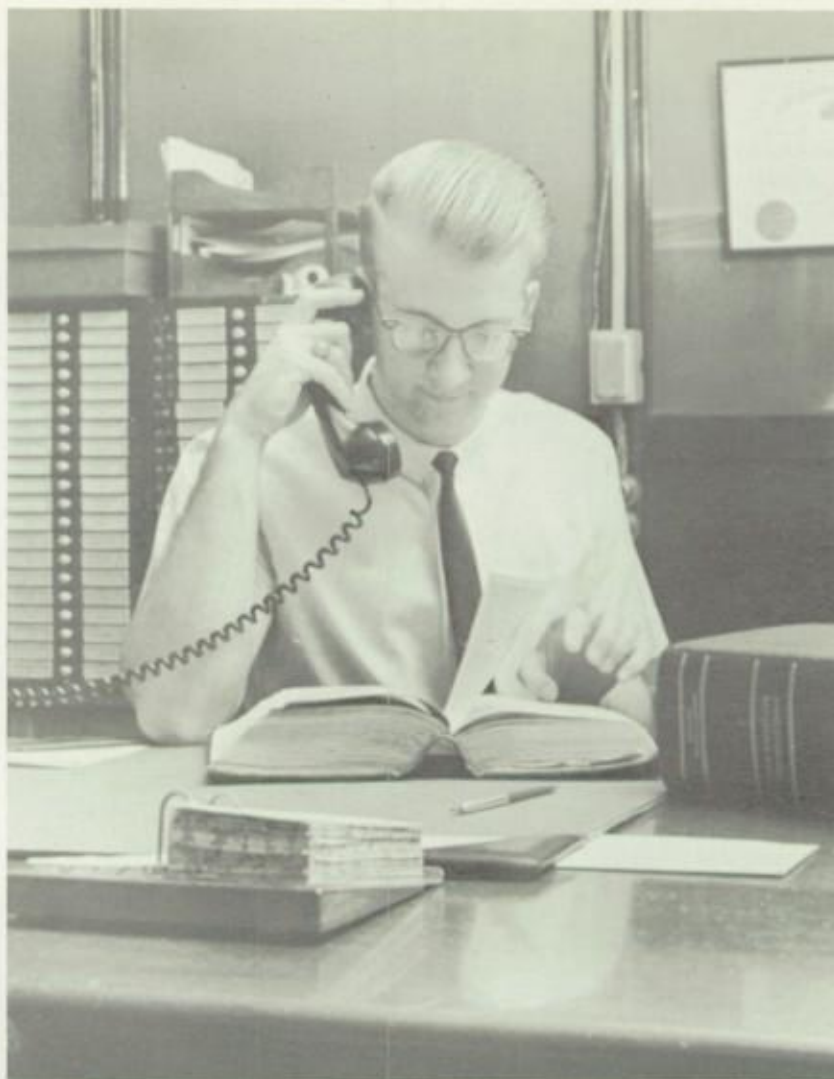

Walking a rooster may not be everyone's idea of fun, but Bill Ryan enjoyed being this bird's keeper during the play, "The Silver Whistle."

A huge tuba might discourage some, but Bob Kisro and Rick Kellerman puff away, endeavoring to attain harmony with the rest of the band.

Do you use the strength of your hands? Do you stretch your mind and body to pursue your own talents?

Testing his ambition to become an attorney, Philip Berghausen spent his last summer vacation working diligently in his uncle's law office.

An unusual and challenging endeavor was pursued by Jim Haft, who drove a huge tank truck during the summer to earn money for college.

Do you find a gasoline engine intriguing? Rodney Collier pursued his interest in mechanics by repairing lawnmowers to earn extra money.

Have the many moods of your heart found expression in the vibrance of a song in the harmony of a chord in the grace of a motion?

From the sensitive strings of her harp, Marie Staubitz recreates the hundreds of moods which inspired the great composers of the world.

With the disciplined positions of modern dance, girls learn to express emotions beyond the realm of words.

Mom, Dad, Phil, Jane, and Ricky Durham have a common enthusiasm for singing.

No, Lou Abbott is not serenading his girl friend over the telephone. He's taking a guitar lesson!

The rigorous football program teaches boys to depend on themselves.

Sympathetic friends cannot help—in Chess Club. Each player must rely on his own skill.

Welcoming members of the Annual Staff to their home, Dr. Takao and Lloyd explain some of their family's Japanese art treasures.

Can you maintain your identity in a group, strengthening those around you while expanding yourself?

Not armies, not nations, have advanced the race; but here and there, in the course of ages, an individual has stood up and cast his shadow over the world.

—E. H. Chapin

The world remembers President John F. Kennedy as a man who represented the United States and worked for the benefit of people everywhere.

A DEBATE IN HISTORY . . . a research project in science . . . an exercise in business . . .
whatever the subject, Western Hills students are given the chance and the challenge to explore.

Developing their perception in nature. Holly Moore and Bette Puckett work together to make a leaf collection for their Biology class project.

Students in Miss Fisher's American History class find that access to a classroom library is helpful in their search for knowledge.

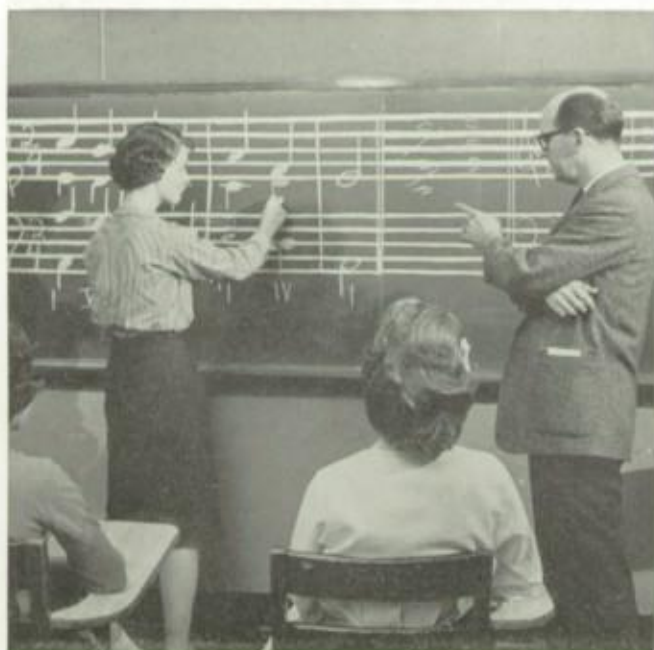

Topics of vital importance to the American people and the world at large were the subjects of frequent panel discussions at Junior Council on World Affairs meetings. Participating in such a discussion are a few active members: Dohrman Byers, Roseann Knight, Virginia Evans and Ron Schmiedeker.

Preparing for an entrance into the business world, Gloria Cannon practices to raise her efficiency in the operation of the dictaphone.

Can you bend the corner of a piece of metal? Tom Masters and Joe Sullivan find that it's an easy task with the help of a metal shop lathe.

Mr. Brady understands, but Ann Growdy needs his help in translating the bewildering parlance of music theory.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT the witch of Agnesi looks like . . . how to find the slope of asymptotes . . . what combats amino acids . . . the development of mitosis . . . why the dominant seventh is inverted? Probably not. Most people don't. But the students at Western Hills can fill you in on the facts. In the classroom they learn the correct meaning and usage of these terms; some of which they may one day use.

Dissecting a fish proves to be a fascinating assignment for students Diane Chaney and Doug Jarro'd.

Spanish students Gary Lind, Allen Mosbaugh, Bill O'Connell, Barbara Griswold, and Merial Spaulding capture all Spain's vitality in a lively play.

Math, chemistry, music theory, Spanish, science . . . each phase of learning becomes a completely new world of ideas and concepts for the student to explore and conquer to insure future success.

Puzzling isn't it? But not to Anita Aring who finds higher mathematics intriguing.

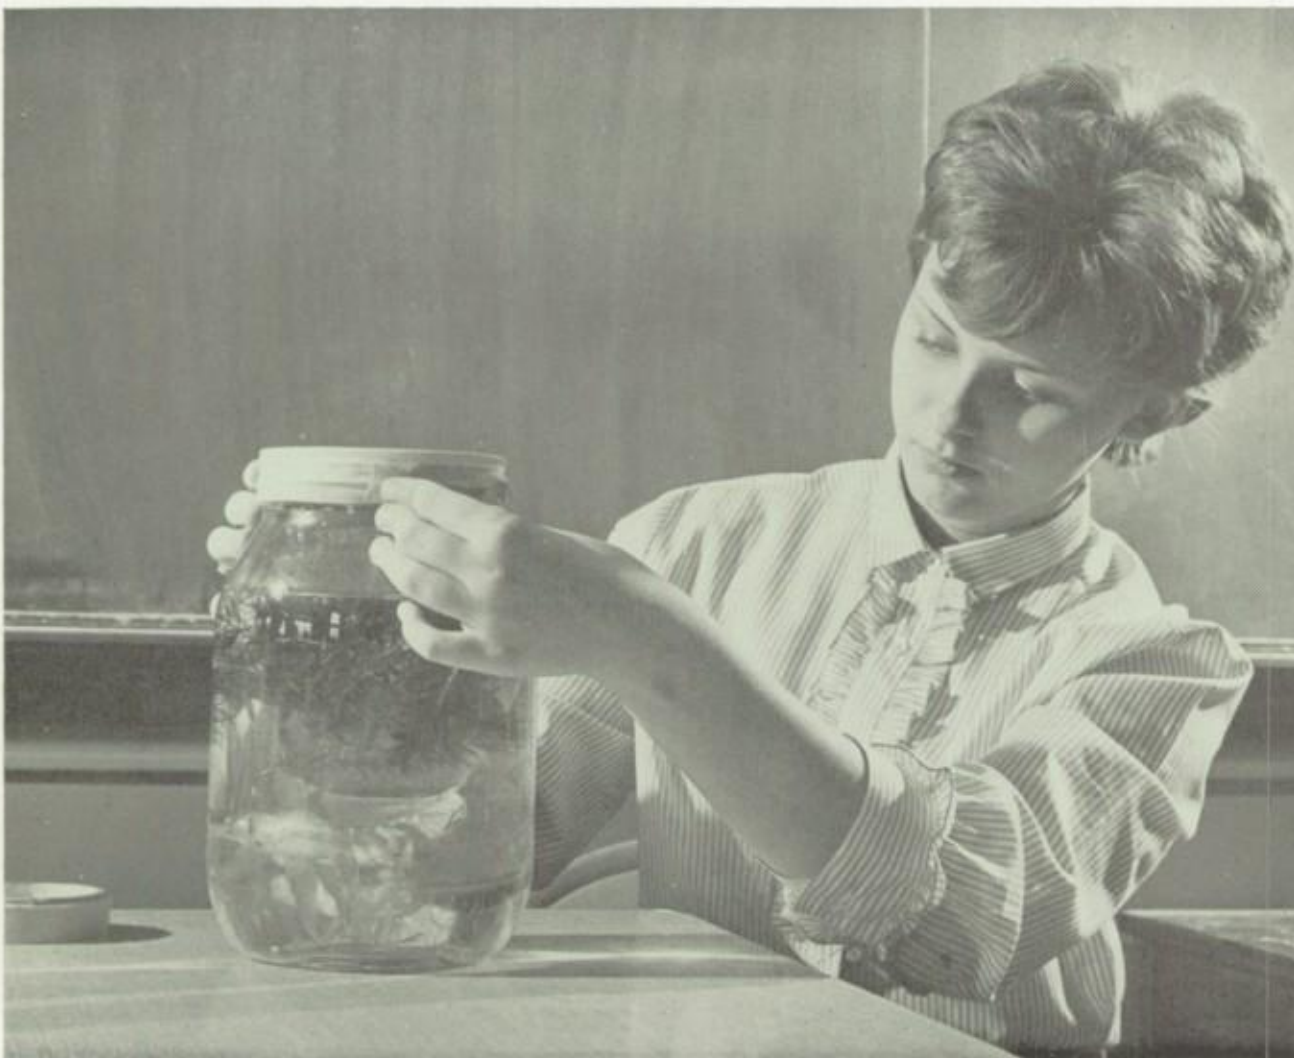

A girl in mechanical drawing? Carol Lipetz finds she is one of a few girls who invaded a strictly male province to enrich their artistic experiences.

Linda Teschler finds pleasure in unusual, distinctive skills as she creates her own jewelry.

BEGINNING in junior high, the student faces a vast number of subjects, which range from industrial arts to literature. He confronts the span of science, the beauty of art, the glory of history, the wonder of mathematics, the fascination of mechanics, the inspiration of literature—the whole span of education. One day after exploring many fields, he suddenly encounters one meaningful experience that electrifies his interest in a particular field. Then he begins his education in earnest.

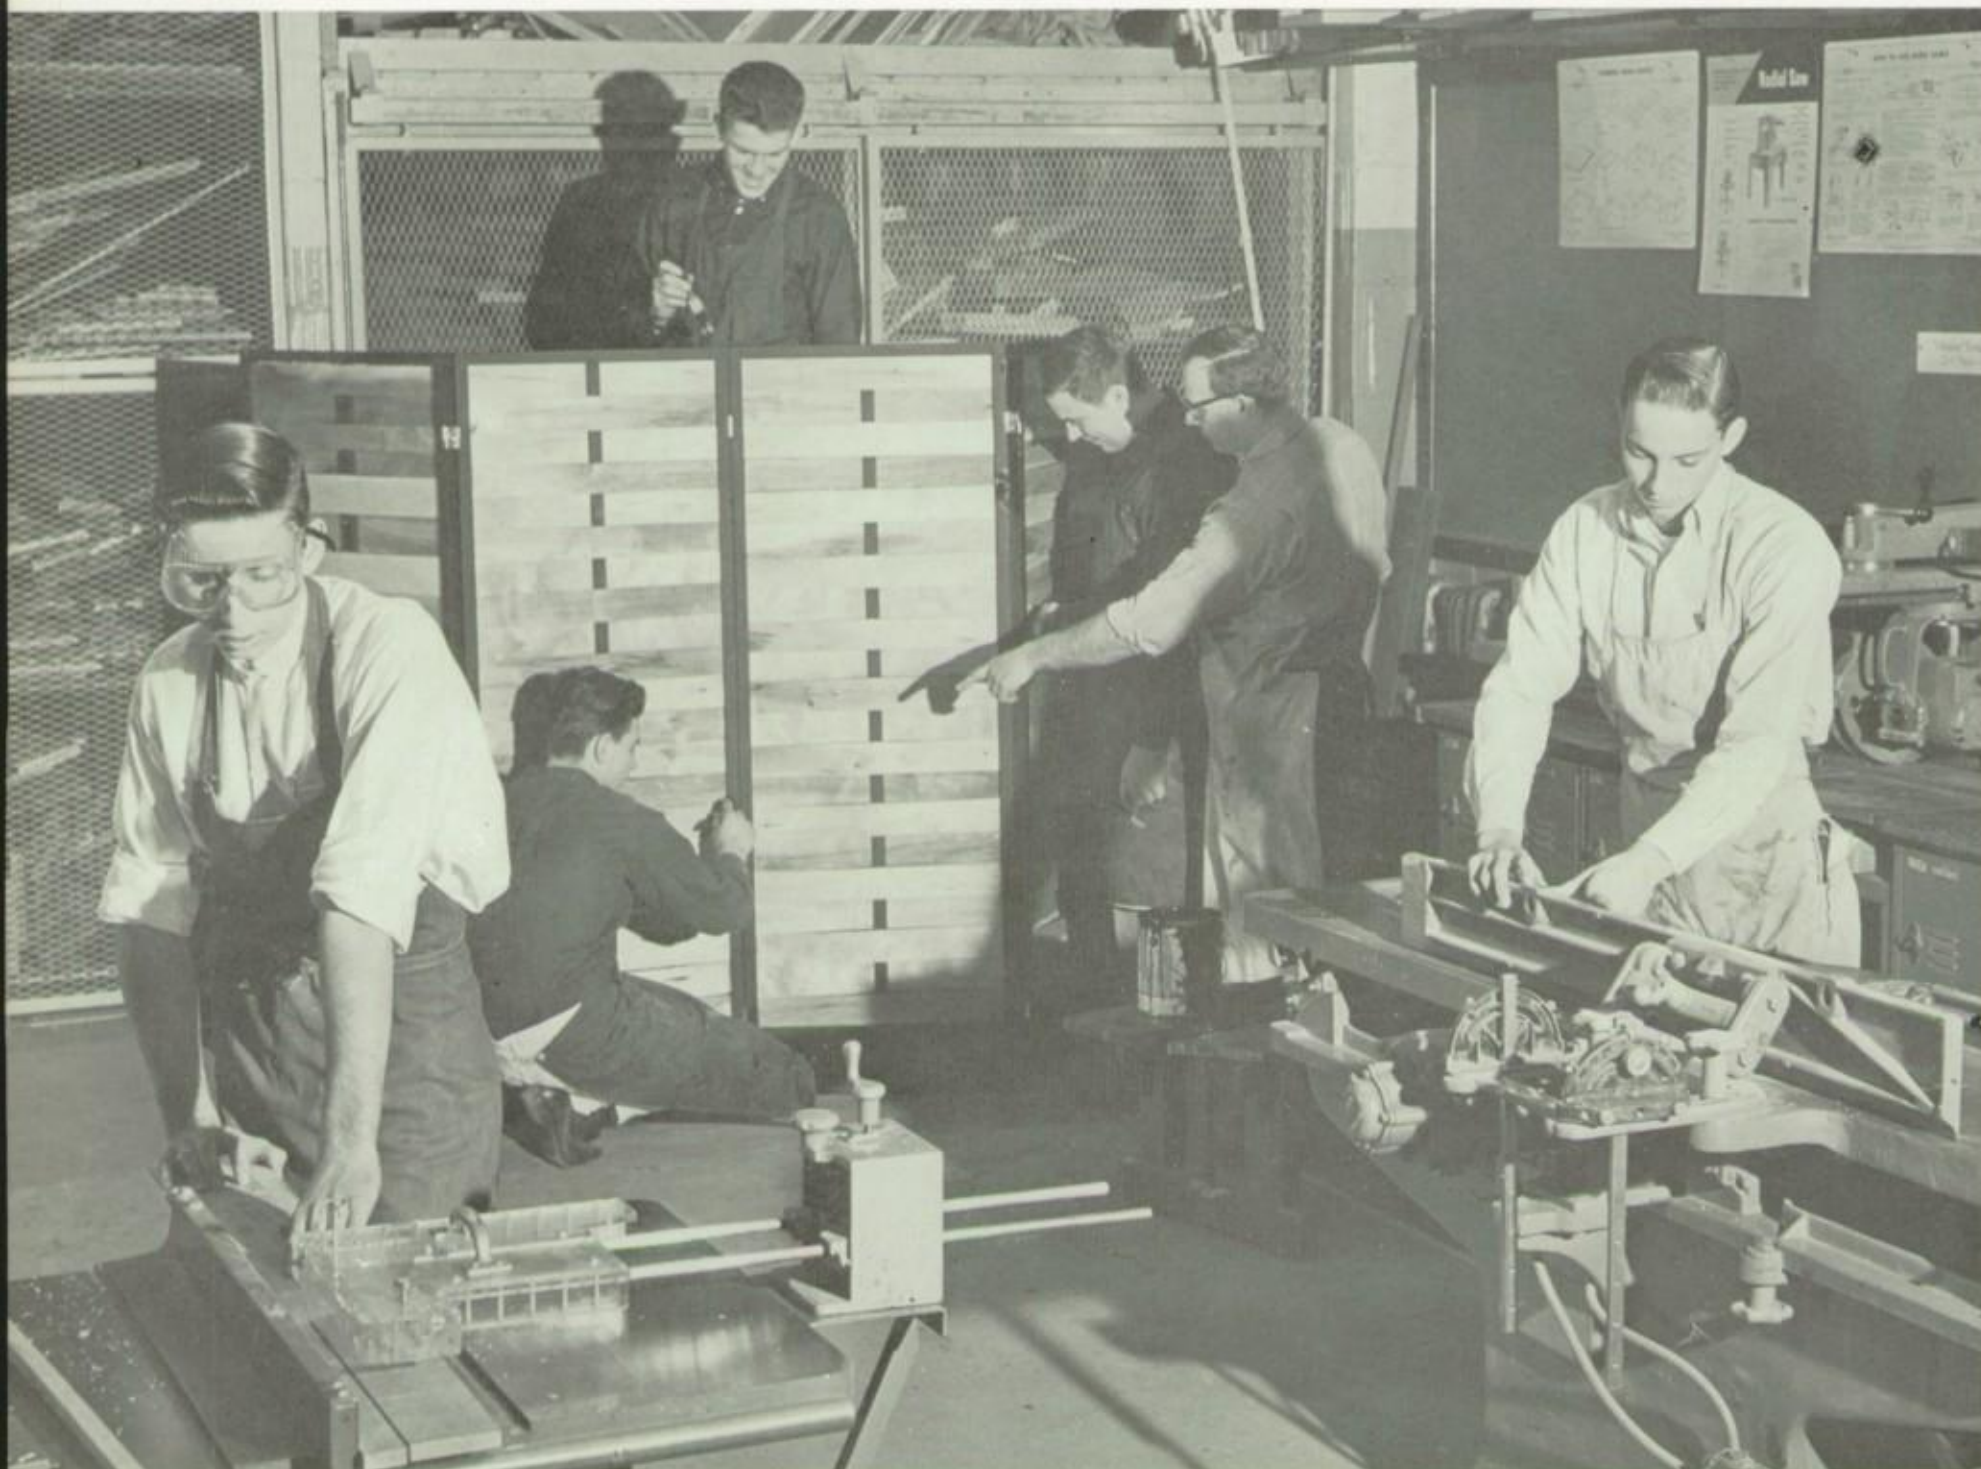

Susan Sloan's interest in biology has led her to an individual project — assembling a plant and animal life aquarium that can sustain its own life.

OUR ATTITUDES make the difference.
If we approach our lessons with grim drudgery, our results are disappointing; if, however, we pursue our studies eagerly with fresh vigor, the rewards are gratifying.

The outlook we take toward life becomes part of us; the future we achieve is our own creation.

Seriousness combined with enthusiasm and zeal help Bill Deas realize that doing a research paper is a rewarding experience.

Proud of their faculty lunchroom project are Mr. Gausman and woodshop students P. Middleton, T. Kirkendahl, J. Ray, J. Schwartz, B. Maidens.

"Hmm-but oh the calories!" Lin Crawford and Linda Ungerbuhler find it easy to have a sunny attitude while baking.

Utensils ready? Instructions clear? Chemistry student Sherry Rider tackles her lab work, eagerly anticipating a successful experiment.

Karen Rupe combines artistic talent and homework while trying to complete a map for World Geography class.

"Of course you understand" suggests Roger Lykins confidently to the bewildered Susan Vogel as they work together in Advanced Math Class.

Original ideas . . . evolving concepts . . . logical thinking—these are of primary importance in the academic classrooms at Western Hills. In a class where freedom of expression is encouraged, students eagerly engage in lively discussions and thus gain broader perspective through sharing ideas with each other.

After a Socio-Economics field trip, Joy Johnson explained the extensive city urban renewal project to her English class.

Teaching her public speaking class the proper way to make a tossed salad was one assignment both Jennifer Glenn and her classmates enjoyed.

Programs for "Oklahoma" slowly take shape under the watchful eyes of Denny Forte and Darrell Henry who often work on such publicity for Western Hills.

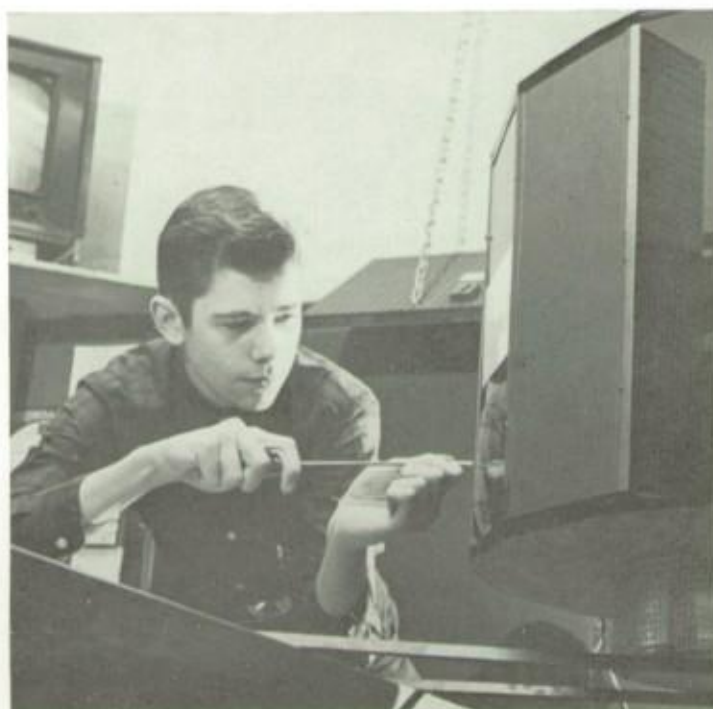

Preparing for a future government job, Sharon Sperber learns how difficult a Civil Service Exam is.

A TEST TUBE LOOKS INVITING TO ONE STUDENT; a shelf of Dicken's novels to another. A boy prefers the whirr of a motor; a girl is intrigued by the click of a typewriter. The wise student realizes that he cannot excel in everything and begins to discover those areas in which he is strong. Then with determination, he uses all of his ability to reach one goal. Instead of envying the success of others he recognizes his own abilities and achieves his own ends.

With his essay, "Pick up your Past, Cincinnati, and Bring it Along," Chip Gulden captured the coveted one hundred dollar Groat Award. Admiring the article is Dan Bittman.

"It won't explode will it?" Terry Martin uses his scientific knowledge to create a satellite for his electric shop project.

Mrs. Abel, student teacher, used Virginia Pfaher, Secretarial Practice student, to demonstrate meticulous attire for an essential job interview.

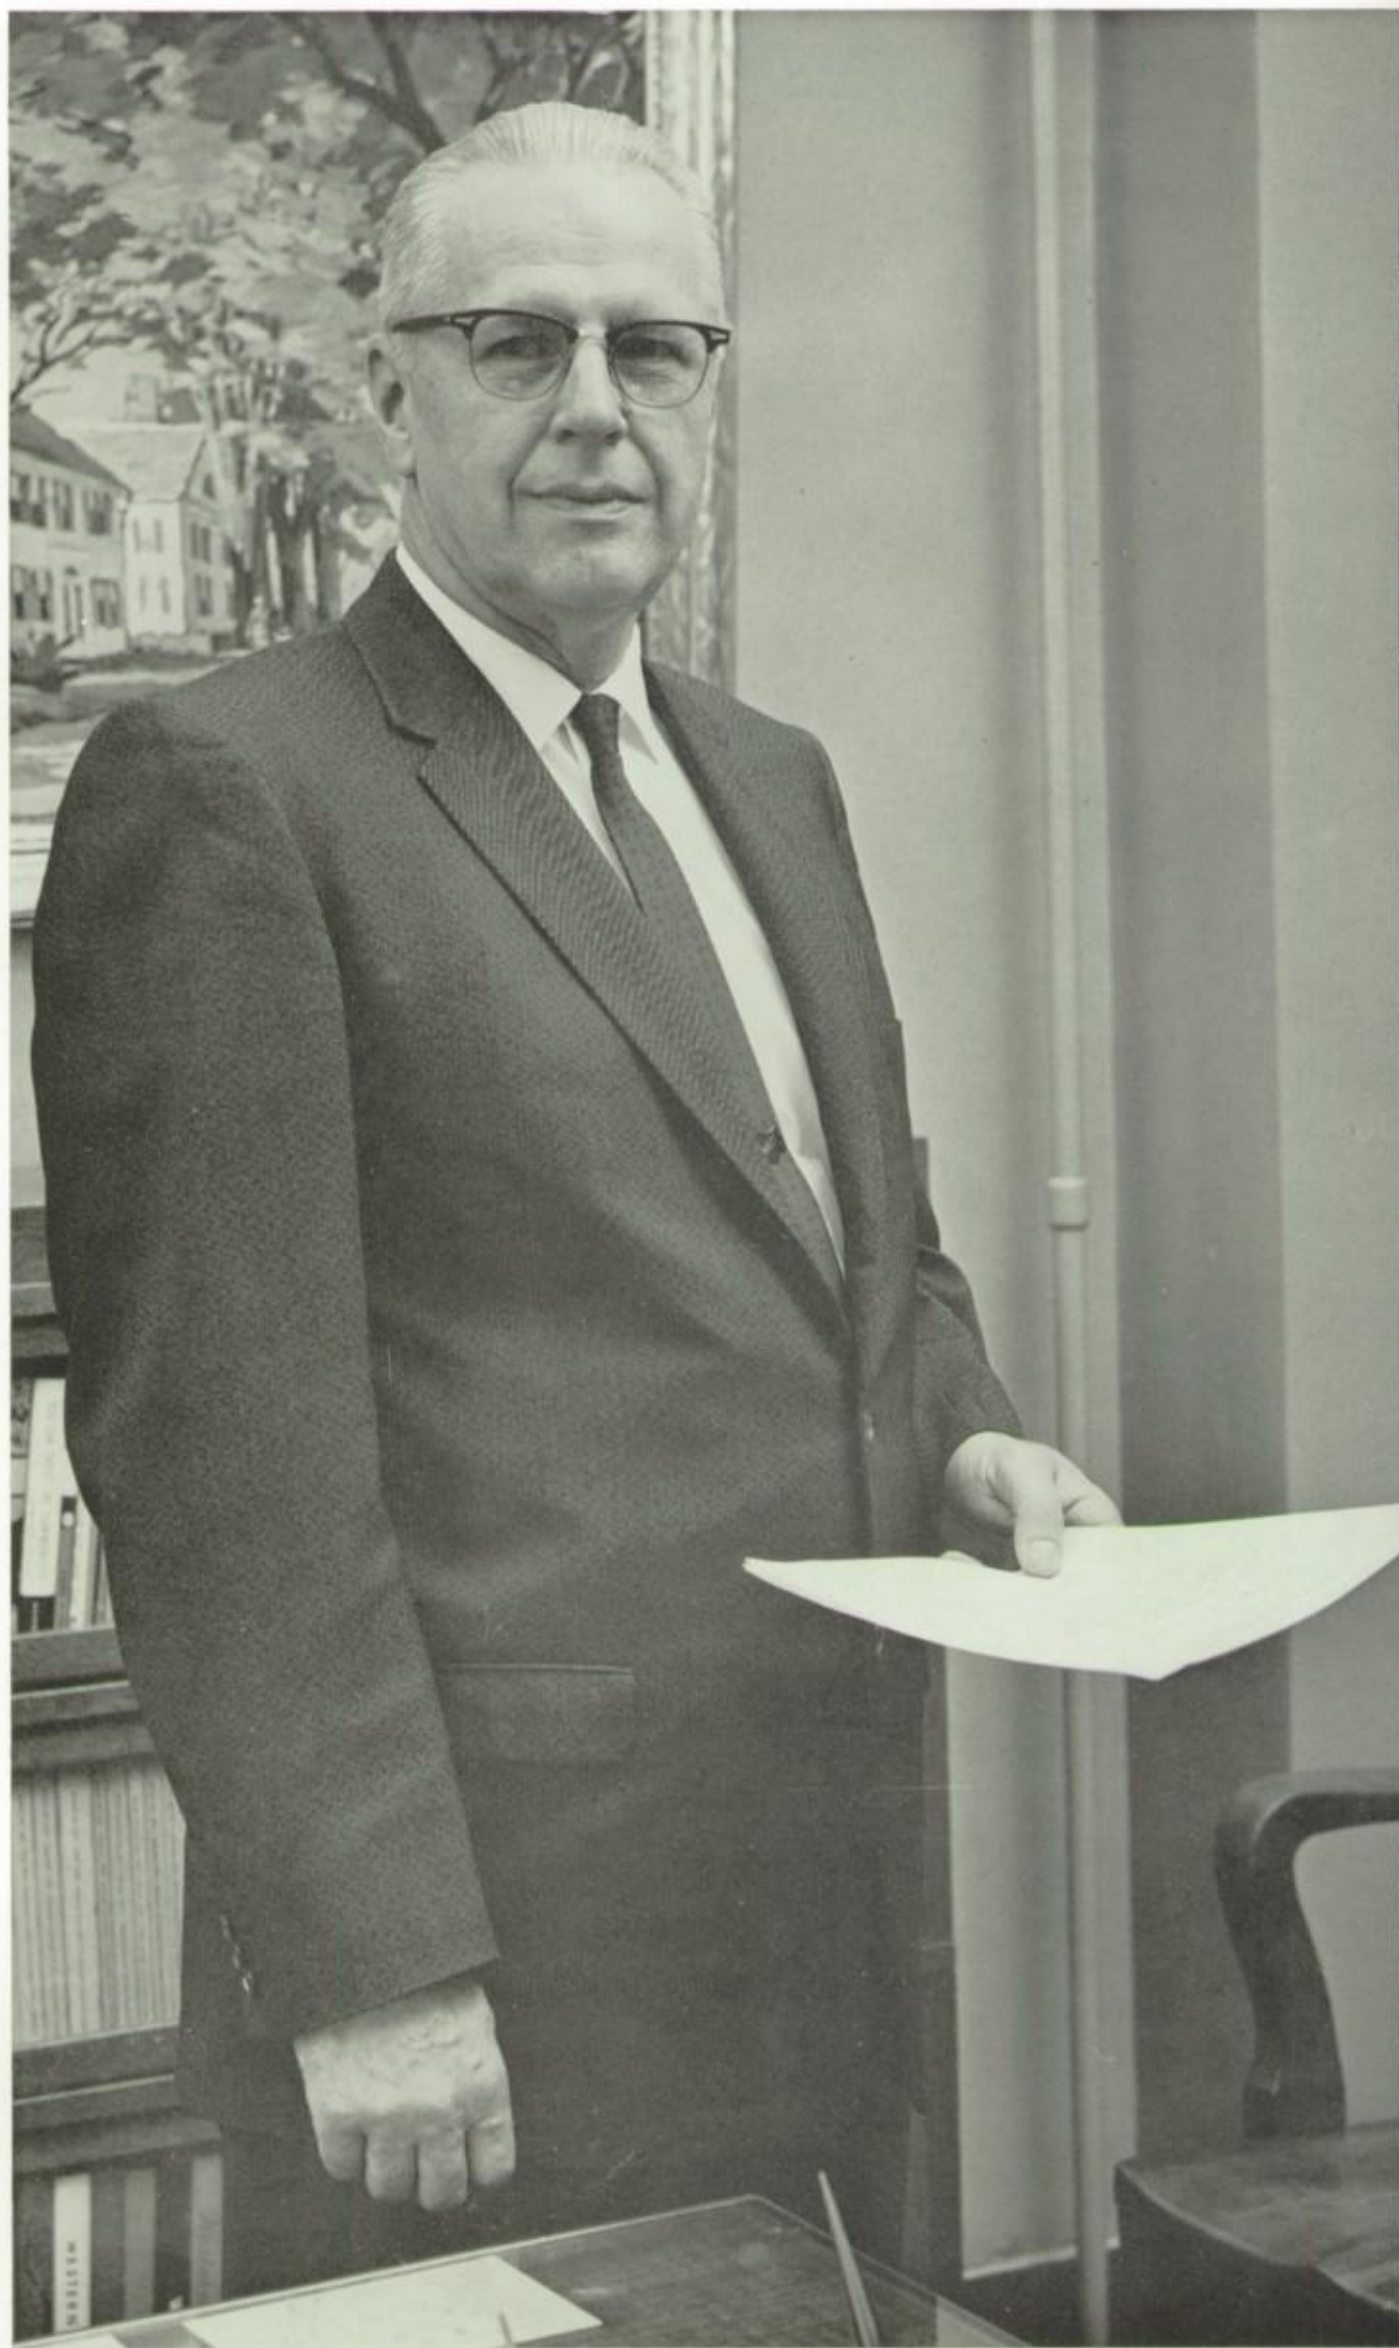

Mr. Carl Shobe, representative from Central High School, explains the apprentice program to interested Western Hill boys.

Faculty — Students produce a high degree of achievement

Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic
Principal

Genial dignity, patience characterize our principal

Guiding the students and faculty of any high school, there is always one man — the principal — who helps to make his school a good one. He is a dynamic person, equally active in school and community affairs. He is an individual, running the school according to his best judgments and convictions. Such a man is Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic, principal of Western Hills. His soft-spoken manner, quiet dignity, and warm sense of humor win for him the respect of all who know him. It is this outstanding personality who makes Western Hills High School one of the best.

Proud of their achievements from woodshop, Mike Mazzei, Jerry Jordan, and Jim Richardson present examples to Mr. Havlovic.

Musically talented, Mr. Havlovic finds pleasure in playing the organ frequently. Before becoming principal he taught music for several years.

Mr. Havlovic keeps students in touch with important announcements, rulings, and information.

Assistant Principals share great responsibilities

"May I have the key to the book store, Mr. Siekmann? Where can I get a projector, Mr. Strunk? Will you be at the canteen, Mr. Nabors?" Whether it is a simple matter like these or one which demands more attention, Western Hills' three assistant principals, Mr. Robert Siekmann, Mr. William Strunk, and Mr. Paul Nabors are at hand to meet the situation. Mr. Strunk's concern is the instructional program of the school. Mr. Siekmann handles the disciplinary problems and other demands of the large senior high. Mr. Nabors supervises the junior high world. The experience and devotion of these men give West High a smoothly-organized administration.

MR. WILLIAM P. STRUNK Assistant Principal, Administration

MR. ROBERT SIEKMANN Assistant Principal, Senior High

Mr. Strunk provides brawn as well as brains.

A former coach, Mr. Siekmann enjoys basketball.

Busy is definitely the word for the three men who share with Mr. Havlovic the tremendous responsibility of managing all of West High's administrative affairs. Besides dealing with many senior high problems, Mr. Siekmann must manage the book store, arrange for the ordering of class rings, and distribute hall locks. In charge of administration, Mr. Strunk handles visual aids, textbooks, and curriculum planning. He is especially helpful in orienting new teachers. As administrator of the junior high, Mr. Nabors spends much time in consultations with both students and parents while still managing the diverse and difficult administrative details.

Exchanging comments on STP board, Mr. Nabors and Mr. Chesley pause in their routine for coffee.

MR. PAUL E. NABORS

Assistant Principal, Junior High

Working as a team in handling the problems of the younger students are Mr. Weil and Miss Hanauer.

Counselors meet individual needs

A counselor must be a combination statistician, psychiatrist, and fortune-teller. He must have a master's degree, a teaching certificate, and experience in personnel work. To help students formulate their plans, counselors arrange a comprehensive program bringing to the school representatives from colleges, the military, and various vocations. They also keep close check on student records to make sure that graduation requirements are being met. For those with personal adjustment problems and anyone else with troubles, the counselors provide for help without fear of pressure.

West High counselors, Mrs. Dorothy Heninger, Mr. Glen Borkosky, Mr. William Conger, and Mr. Fred Schlimm, agree that frequent meetings and group discussions help to solve problems on both junior and senior high levels as well as to relieve the tensions of a trying school day.

Need some help in the office? Ready to assist you are five pretty secretaries—Miss Lehman, Miss Meyer, Miss Taylor, Miss Bicking, Miss Huseman.

Secretaries vital to school

Typing, filing, assisting students and teachers, greeting visitors—these are only a part of our secretaries' busy day. From manning the intercom in the morning to locking the office door at night, they perform their varied duties with efficiency.

Stacks of coins, checks, and reports literally deluge West Hi's able treasurer, Miss O'Neil.

Talking over their daily problems are Miss Rotherth, secretary for junior high, and Mrs. Adams, counseling secretary.

Crowded busy hours

Learning more about his ancestral past, Mr. Clayton busies himself with his very unusual hobby of geneology.

characterize teachers' day

Teachers at Western Hills may not be as handsome as "Mr. Novak", but they are just as dedicated as he. To them, dedication means not only devoting their time to teaching lessons, giving homework, and grading papers, but also means donating part of their lives to the betterment of the students. Always perceptive to the hidden talents of the reserved student, teachers are quick to encourage self-expression; to satisfy questioning minds, they are willing to remain after school for pupil conferences. This dedication extends into extracurricular school activities where teachers give their time to encourage the full development of the student's abilities. Though teaching demands so much, Western Hill's one hundred twenty-one faculty members respond to its challenge.

Responsibility is key word in a teacher's busy life

Besides the tasks assigned to them, many Western Hills teachers are called upon to take additional responsibilities. Seven attendance teachers are given the monumental task of keeping daily check on thirty-two hundred students. Sixty teachers serve as sponsors and advisors for groups and clubs. Twenty chaperone school dances and canteens. Thirteen athletically minded men coach sports long hours before and after school, while six women, who don't agree it's a man's world, coach G.A.A. activities. Teachers realize that these activities satisfy the community's need for fully educated and well-rounded individuals.

Teacher or coach - patience is one required trait

Patience is a needed quality in both teaching and coaching. If a player forgets his last minute instructions, a coach must have patience, and if a student doesn't understand, a teacher must also have patience. Some students are naturally trying to a teacher, but teachers can endure minor irritations as well as major problems with equanimity.

Coach Dick Hauck draws on his experience as he gives last minute instructions to safety-man Jim Patton in an effort to strengthen the team's defensive play.

Rookies are intrigued by high school atmosphere

Ah! High School! What's it like? Just ask a seventh grader. He'll tell you! So much more freedom, more people to know, more activities . . . more work! Students, mostly from Covedale, Carson, Whittier, and Central Fairmount, poured into West High's already crowded hall, adding a class of approximately 350 students. To help seventh graders become acquainted with Western Hills, Student Council distributed handbooks. With the aid of their handbooks, rookies quickly learned most rules, regulations, and procedures of their new school. In no time at all, these young, inexperienced rookies become professional seventh graders, eagerly looking forward to their next year in high school.

"I didn't know there could be that many rules!" After a busy orientation program, seventh-grader Scott Muhlhauser studies the handbook.

“Rookie Aides” give pointers to confused seventh graders

“Can you tell me where the girls’ gym is?” “Well, go down these stairs to the first floor, turn left, walk along the corridor next to the auditorium, go through the double doors, turn left and climb the stairs.” “Oh . . . uh . . . thank you.” To most seventh grade girls the gym seems to be the worst stumbling block, and they invariably find themselves in the boys’ locker room. For the boys, however, the lunchroom presents the greatest problem. Most seventh grade boys either move down the line so fast that they forget about the food, or they stock their trays so full that they run out of money.

"History? I want the seventh grade art room." Poor Steve Kolb is confused on his first exciting day at Western Hills.

"I won't be able to eat Friday if I buy this much each day," mutters rookie Dale Heilman as he treats himself on Monday.

Concentrating with youthful enthusiasm, seventh grader Mark Baldwin practices type setting in hopes of going on to more advanced projects like the Bandwagon posters arranged behind him in the print shop.

Vocations of tomorrow may depend upon choices of today

Tantalizing smells of home economics and industrious sounds from the shops are constant reminders of the busy junior high students around us.

"Look at the lamp I made for my mom in Wood Shop." "We baked brownies today in Home Ec. Boy, were they good!" These boisterous shouts become familiar to passing fellow students as the first year of junior high progresses. Learning practical skills enables many students to choose between studies within technical fields and the academic course of study at Western Hills.

Although a shift is simple and straight, it has to be perfect. Striving for perfection, Nancy Bartley receives help from her classmate Donna Barnes.

"Chores, chores, and more chores!" sigh eighth graders Yvonne Combs and Nancy Bartley, as they happily finish their job in the laundry room.

Report cards bring joy . . . and disappointment

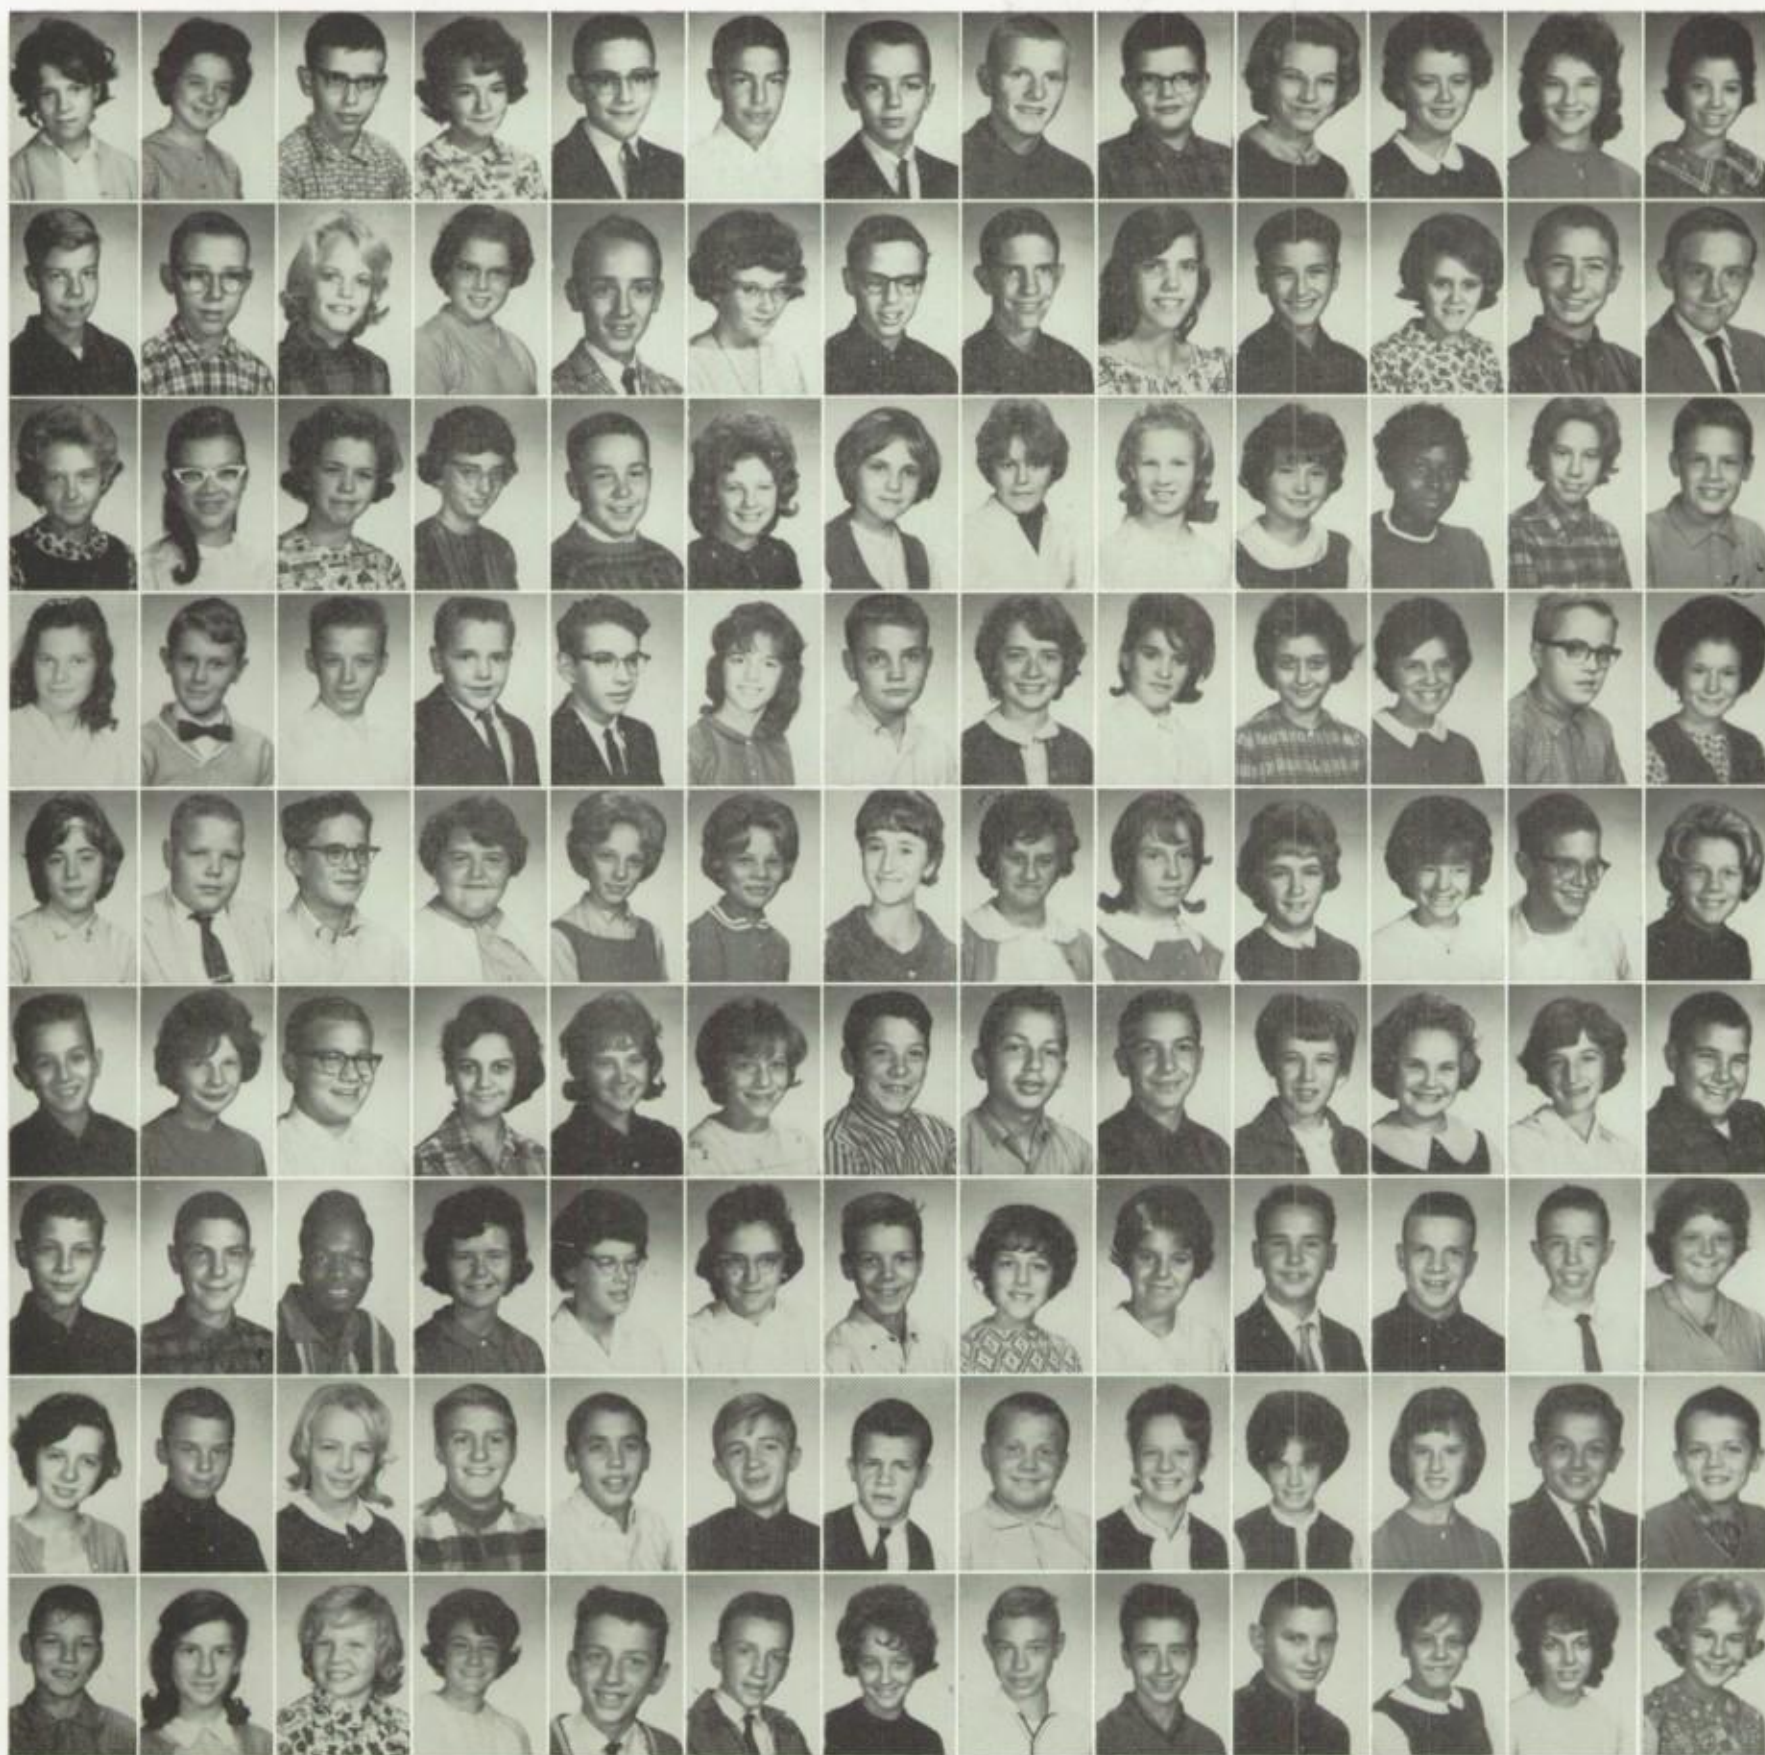

It's that time again! The end of another report card period. Some look forward to it with a smile and a feeling of accomplishment.

Others—those who haven't worked too hard—have a few butterflies and a feeling of dread. "If only I had studied harder." "And I was going to get all 'A's this time." But the end of the six-weeks is not what counts. Students soon learn that day by day studying is much better than the final cram before six-weeks tests.

They discover, too, that by studying faithfully, they can raise their grades. So, with determination, eighth graders again set out to face the next six-weeks.

Are the grades as identical as the faces? The new six-weeks grades are serious business to Western Hills twins, Steve and Tom Judd.

Self-confidence, excitement,

Nine bells, nine teachers, one counselor, fifty friends—these make up the life of an eighth grader. As eighth graders become more sure of themselves in their roll at high school, they no longer fear being late to class; they are more aware of the function of student council, and they may even decide to run for an office as a freshman next year. Participating in activities, more and more girls join GAA and Y-Teens. Boys try-out for the freshman basketball and football teams. Both join Junior High Pep Club, Digits and Language Clubs.

New responsibilities face the new members of Rookie Aids

Who is a freshman? He is one of 479 in Western Hills' ninth grade class. Is he energetic? He sure is. Does he have plenty of school spirit? Definitely. He is a leader in junior high activities and sports. He is a rookie aid, a member of pep club, an honor society officer, a cheerleader, a student council representative, or a member of the junior high football team. He is at the top of the junior high world—a leader, an organizer. He is everywhere at one time, always busy with studies and activities. He is the senior high's hope for leadership in years to come. He is a freshman at Western Hills.

"All this food! How do you ever stay within your budget?" worries Patty Coyle, as Greg Fread, rookie aide, takes her on a tour of the lunchroom.

Who's hiding under the instruments? Band rookie, Bryon Cartwright, toils under Steve Rost's traditional razzing after a day of rookying.

Frosh endure rookying during the whole school year.

"Victory! Victory! That's our cry!" The familiar cheer arose from excited spectators at every junior high game. Helping to create enthusiasm, junior high Pep Club members, led by ninth grade officers, sold maroon and cream pompoms. Besides encouraging attendance at athletic events, freshmen promoted school spirit with canteens and class projects after school. Emphasizing scholastic achievement was the National Junior Honor Society, while the Junior High Student Council members urged all West High students to take part in a more democratic school life.

Expert guidance and practice aid new student drivers

"Who says learning to drive is simple?" exclaims a confused sophomore. Well, driving may not be simple, but the Western Hills driver-education program can make it easier. With one semester allotted to classroom driver's education, sophomores learn the laws of the road and the many technical steps in driving. After successfully concluding classroom work, students are eligible to participate in the Behind the Wheel class. Excitement rings out as the student places the key in the ignition, grips the steering wheel and starts the car for his first try on the road. After six weeks of actual driving students take the required test to judge their driving ability.

North or south? Sophomore Peggy Sneddon maps out possible routes for her imaginary journey. All of this is a part of driver education.

Tenth graders form outside interests

Did you ever think of starting a butterfly collection? Have you ever wanted a chemistry lab in your basement? Would you like to become proficient at playing the violin? Because they were introduced to the different activities in school, many students do have such hobbies. Science classes, choir, gym class, and even math and English classes have helped students to become interested in extracurricular activities. Some outside interests are developed in clubs which the school sponsors; others are developed by the individual at his own special time. Hobbies acquired as a result of school will be invaluable to one for leisure and perhaps even a livelihood in the future.

Careful Mike! After all that exercise it would be tragic to ruin such a good specimen. But the exercise is nothing compared to tedious work of mounting the butterfly.

No, it isn't Africa, and it isn't Dr. Livingston. It's just Mike Jockers tramping through the woods rounding up another good specimen for his butterfly collection.

"Oh, a test next bell and only two minutes left." Judy Agostini pushes the panic button or is it the hair dryer?

Hurry, flurry, and confusion

Lunch, study hall, and hair drying sessions all at once. Impossible? Well, not for some sophomore girls! With a sophomore class of approximately 672, Western Hills students face many problems. The problem of finding time to dry hair after swimming is minor but common. Also, students from Gamble discover difficulties in the nine bell day and location of rooms. "Room 110, 112, 114! Hey, where's room 113?" exclaims the confused sophomore from Gamble. There is no real problem when he realizes the rooms with even numbers are at the north end of the building, and the rooms with odd numbers are at the south end.

Who will be this year's new sophomore class officers? You will decide.

Sophomore officers plunge into the whirlwind of activities

Not only sophomores but the entire school joined in the Christmas spirit during December. The first signs of Christmas appeared when art classes made ornaments and models such as sleighs, bells, snowmen, Santa Claus and scenes of the crèche. Soon the second sign materialized when students trimmed the annual Student Council Christmas tree. "Center the stand; don't break the branches and watch where you string the series of lights!" Familiar cries filled the front hall as the tree went up. Presenting the Christmas program Studio choir sang, "Jingle Bell Travelogue" and "Twas the Night Before Christmas"; the orchestra played "Sleigh Ride" and the dramatics department acted out "The Fourth Wise Man." Concluding the final day before the holidays, home economics classes entertained members of the Western Hills faculty at a Christmas Tea.

Sleighs packed with toys, sparkling ornaments, and laughing snowmen were contributed by the art classes as a Christmas touch for the hall.

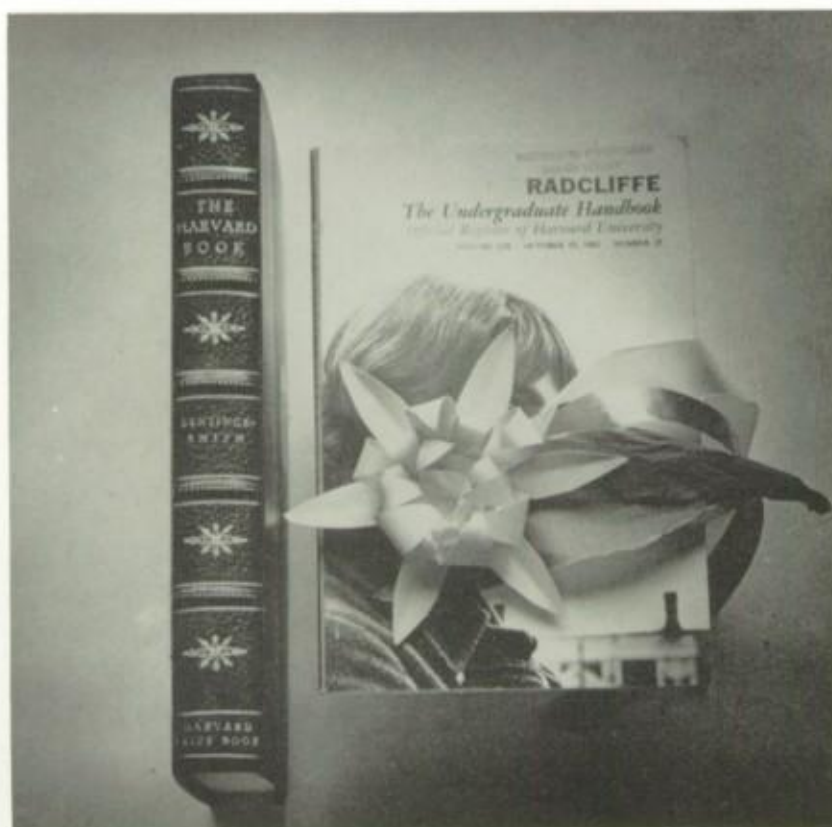

Cookies baked! Table set! Decorations finished! Showing appreciation for their teachers, Home Economics classes give a Christmas tea.

Say, that stuff is certainly cold! The season's first snow entices energetic sophomore students Linda Allendorf, Jon Robin Parr, Linda Hay.

Christmas is here! West High students spread the spirit of the joyous season.

Juniors look to their future and choice of careers.

"And so my fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country." These words of the late President Kennedy, were remembered by many juniors. The President's tragic assassination seemed to create a new seriousness of purpose in college-bound juniors. Ambition, desire, drive, and success exemplified by the President began to develop in junior attitudes. Preparing to enter college, juniors were tested by the College Entrance Examination Board. Final scores on the S.A.T. and N.M.S.Q. tests enabled juniors to write college applications.

Bubbling with hope and college plans Larry Borcharding tries to interest Pam Coyle whose present interest is finding the right book for class.

Energetic, spirited, eager, and continually busy juniors dash in and out of school participating in the many activities which West High offers. Inquisitive Breeze reporters investigate the latest events for the paper's next issue. Annual staffers madly try to recover those "misplaced photos" for the 1964 edition. Band members trudge on a dusty field to prepare for next week's game. Junior boys who are agile enough to make the varsity team share the spotlight with the regulars. Is all this worthwhile? Juniors say "yes", for they look to their senior year, realizing they are soon to be the leaders of the school.

What's a broken foot without a cast covered with scribbles, initials, and names? Hugh Schaffer likes the fad that has become a tradition.

Car wash, Round-up spark enthusiasm in junior class.

"Connect the hose, turn on the water, pull up the car, and don't upset the buckets!" shouts a busy eleventh grader at the Junior class carwash. Though this carwash presents problems, it promotes fellowships and excitement as a fund raising campaign. With adequate funds acquired, the class, under the leadership of officers, plans and attends the Junior Class-Round-up in the fall and the Junior-Senior prom in the spring. "Coöperation is tremendous for such an enormous class of over 700 students and "It seems to be a closely knit group of students," states Mr. Otten, class sponsor.

That '63-64 year was one of the best . . . at West Hi!

"Let's twist and shout! Come on let's all swing!" Our Senior Class, rocking the night away at our first class activity, enjoyed the 1964 roundup at Maple Ridge in October. With ample left-over energy, we cheered the team at the Elder game, but all our shakers, mums, and loud cheers were in vain. We lost. Halfheartedly we joined the gay festivities of the Homecoming Dance. December brought on the cold snow, and with it, the results of that A.C.T. test! Mid-terms—our first and last exams!—were also coming up. After a long wait, spring finally arrived, and brought with it the Prom in April—the last dress-up event before Graduation where we would meet as a class. By now we were a kind of family. We had enjoyed together one of the best and most exciting years of our entire lives . . . 1963-64.

Guided by class officers, seniors enjoy a gay

Wistfully, we looked back at the school year—the games, the dances, the elections, the work—these are a part of the past. The time had come to think of the future. Some of us would be going to college and some would obtain new and exciting jobs, but the real test was yet to come. Each one of us—no matter what our chosen path was—would have to be himself and think for himself. We all had come to the realization that high school had given us the value of individuality—the sense that we would be on our own now and must make a new life for ourselves.

Here come the cheerleaders! "You gotta yell—ecstatic enthusiasm of another season of activities.

The Marching Band exemplifies our school spirit

West High's massive, colorful band, accompanied by exuberant majorettes, marches off into another season of sports and bouyant enthusiasm! Under the guidance of a new leader, Mr. Bryson Curry, the band plunged into the everlasting routine of tedious practice. Each week new routines and long drilling proved worth while, however, when intricate formations were lustily acclaimed under bright stadium lights. Enthusiasm, sparkle, and school spirit are continuously brought into every sports activity by the Western Hills Marching Band.

These two golden-toned trumpeters receive a spotlight of recognition.

Whoops! Aren't the arms a little too big, Paula? 'Tis the season — the band season — and time for members to dig out uniforms that fit.

Tuba playing requires man power and stamina. To tackle those big brasses and make them bellow—harmoniously? is a tremendous task.

Bubbling with activity and spirit, West High majorettes enthusiastically lead the cheering crowd in eager preparation for the oncoming game.

Proudly leading the band at halftime are D. Metzger, P. Horton, N. Scheer, D. Gigley, J. Glazer, S. Ruehlman, J. Gieringer, J. Ose.

Sr. G.A.A. celebrates its 35th birthday

"Surprise! Happy Birthday!" With these jubilant cries, Senior GAA board members presented their plans for a year of activity. About 250 girls joined in the spirit of friendship and competition. Since the treasury was suffering a deficit, many money-making projects were initiated. Candied apples, bakery goods, and sweatshirts proved to be good money-making items. The Ways and Means chairman was deluged with work in February when the time came to choose Mr. Western Hills; but even the work was fun. With the birthday party in mind, the board planned the annual May Banquet around the theme of a 35th Anniversary. Here the girls received their awards from Miss Witte, Miss Geiringer, and Mrs. Smith. As a climax the officers handed their jobs down to their successors. This was not only the end of the banquet, but also the beginning of another thrilling year under new leaders.

"Happy Birthday" yells Senior GAA Board: T. Kolb, C. Peacock, M. Martin, S. Lorch, J. Forster, J. Fricke, P. Heckman, P. DeTurk, C. Farison, D. Rathkamp, S. Minor, K. Anderson, L. Wichman, C. Gromen, L. Norden, D. Schneeman, S. Morgan, K. Scott, M. Scheidt, S. Babst, V. Martin, J. Grieser, G. Davis, N. Whitehurst, N. Lloyd.

Anticipating the success of her swing, Nancy Nelson is oblivious to the intent, watchful faces of Cheri Gromen and Mrs. Smith behind the plate.

Crisp air and fun

Crack! Was that somebody's shin or the ball that was hit? In the fall, hearty screams of Senior High girls announce the opening of the hockey season and in the spring, softball brings G.A.A. to a close. During this time as lazy muscles heal and participants acquired rosy complexions in friendly competition, most girls discover much truth in the adage that "the reward of the spirit who tries is not the goal, but the exercise."

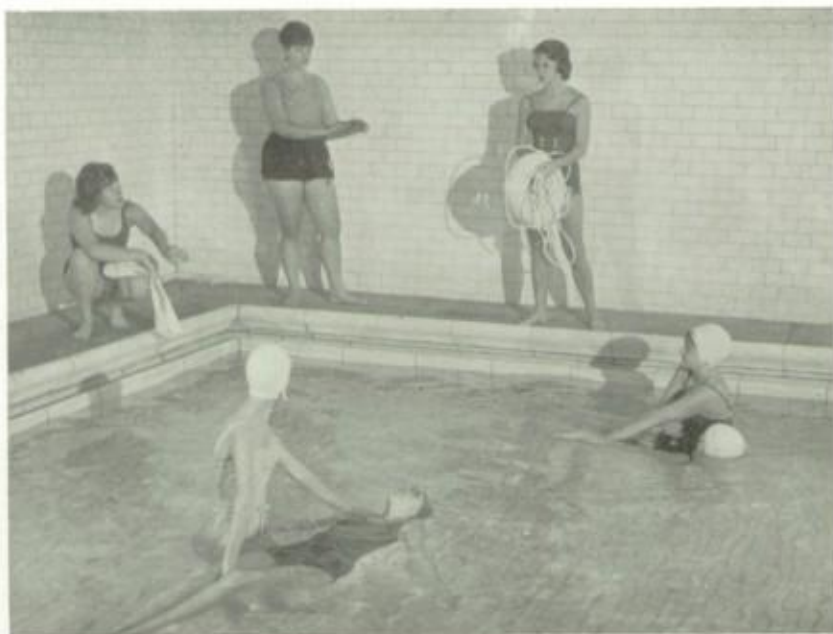

"That's the way the ball bounces," laments Sherry Scull as she fumbles it.

Pushing and pulling, Vera Martin conquers her heavy, cumbersome equipment.

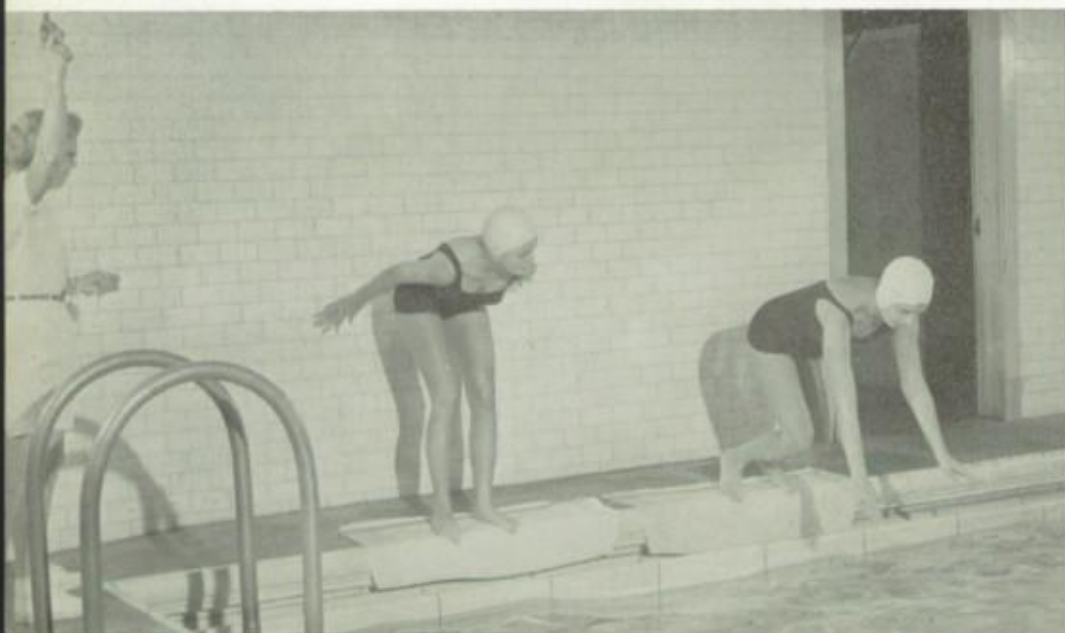

Dribbling down the center, Paula Hutchens sees an obstruction to her drive and prepares to pass to teammates, Marge Fox or Kathy Illian.

Instructing Linda Spreen, Susan Heidrich, Linda Allendorf and Marilyn Hader in the fireman's carry are Vera Martin, Kathy Scott, Trudy Kolb.

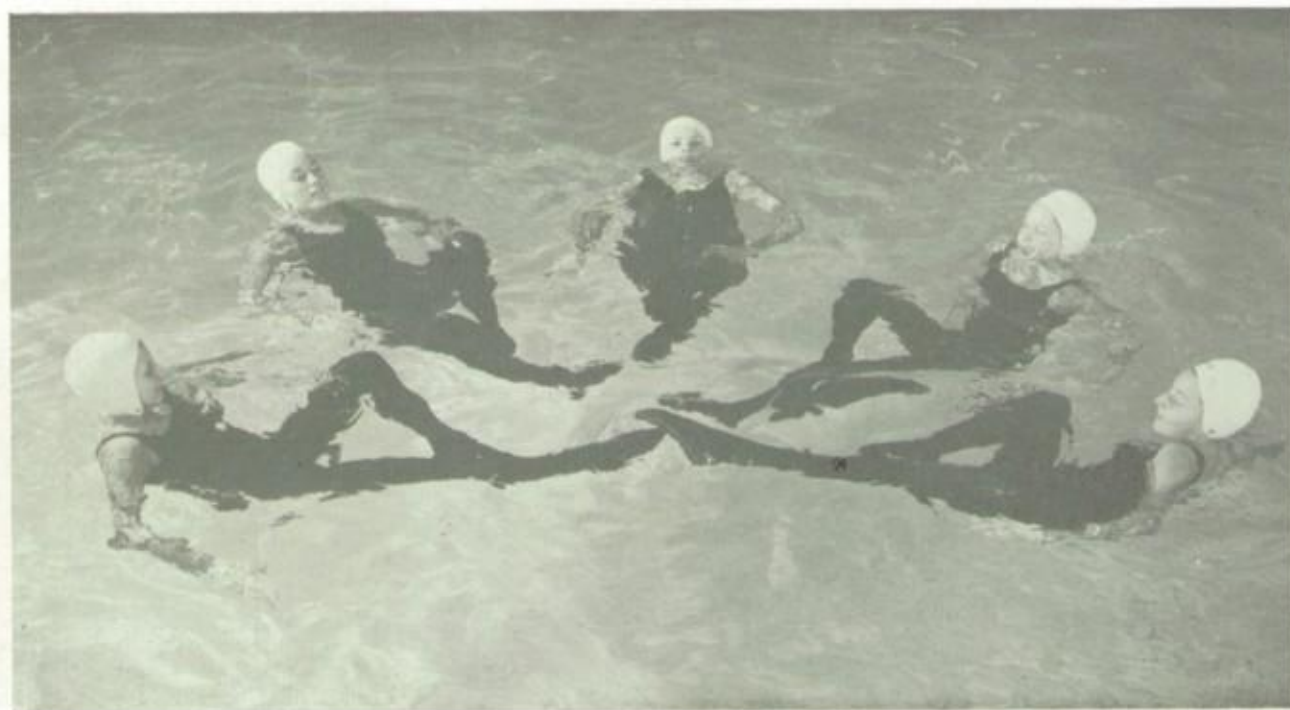

Swimming caters to many diversified skills

Confusion reigned as forty-two girls came to the pool-side for a season of Life Saving which unexpectedly extended until Christmas. Sharing the pool at the same time, were the yellow and green caps. While the Life Savers practiced carries, approaches, and releases, the yellow and green caps, who were classed as beginners and intermediates, spent their time learning skills which would enable them to become blue caps and be eligible for Life Saving. The second season for advanced blue and red caps followed with girls eagerly and enthusiastically preparing for the meets to be held in late winter, in competition with other P.H.S.L. schools. For those who were not strong swimmers, a third season of water ballet began in the spring. The final show of all their work before the audience proved satisfying and enjoyable to both the girls and the audience. Since strength, speed, and precision cannot always be combined, G.A.A. offered separate activities to interest each type of swimmer.

Tense anticipation of the coming race against opponent, Connie Peacock, causes Diane Bruns to lose her balance, committing a false start.

Formations require the skilled execution of water ballet movements to the musical rhythms.

Stuck ball! Nancy Garretson and Jan Maurer cleverly use a shuffleboard stick to get a tightly trapped ball free from the basketball net.

Hold that net up! exclaims Nancy Lloyd, volleyball manager to teammates as they help take down the equipment.

Fun and excitement permeated the entire Girl's Gym at the advanced volleyball game against Oak Hills.

Nets are the thing

November rains, winter snow, and brisk March winds confine within four walls energetic girls who seek enjoyment and companionship. To meet these conditions, G.A.A. provides a season of volleyball and one of basketball. Starting in November, every Thursday and Friday, eager teams crowded the volleyball courts in lively intra-school competition. Following this friendly class competition, the advanced teams enthusiastically prepared to face their opponents from other Cincinnati high schools.

Play resumes when Donna Wuerdeman quickly passes the ball to teammate, Nancy Scheer, who is blocked by her opponent, JoAnne Greiser.

Though skilled at the straddle vault, Elana Grow relies on the help of her spotter, Barbara Minor.

Miss America participates in Jr. G.A.A.

"Here she comes, Miss America," or was it Miss Bowling or Miss Soccer for 1963-64? Opening the sports year with a beauty contest, Junior G.A.A. presented contestants who ranged from the soccer-ball girl to the frog lady. Following this initial pageant, members enjoyed throughout the year, dances, service projects, the annual hike to Rapid Run Park, and finally the Spring Banquet. As Miss America reluctantly passed her honors and responsibilities on to a worthy successor, so the Junior G.A.A. officers and board members also bestowed their titles upon their successors.

"It was a foot fault!" shouts umpire, Bev Findley, arguing with Carol Clements, as the tripped victim, Pam Renner, regains her balance.

Jr. G.A.A. officers are caught in the spirit of the season as they deliver their Thanksgiving basket.

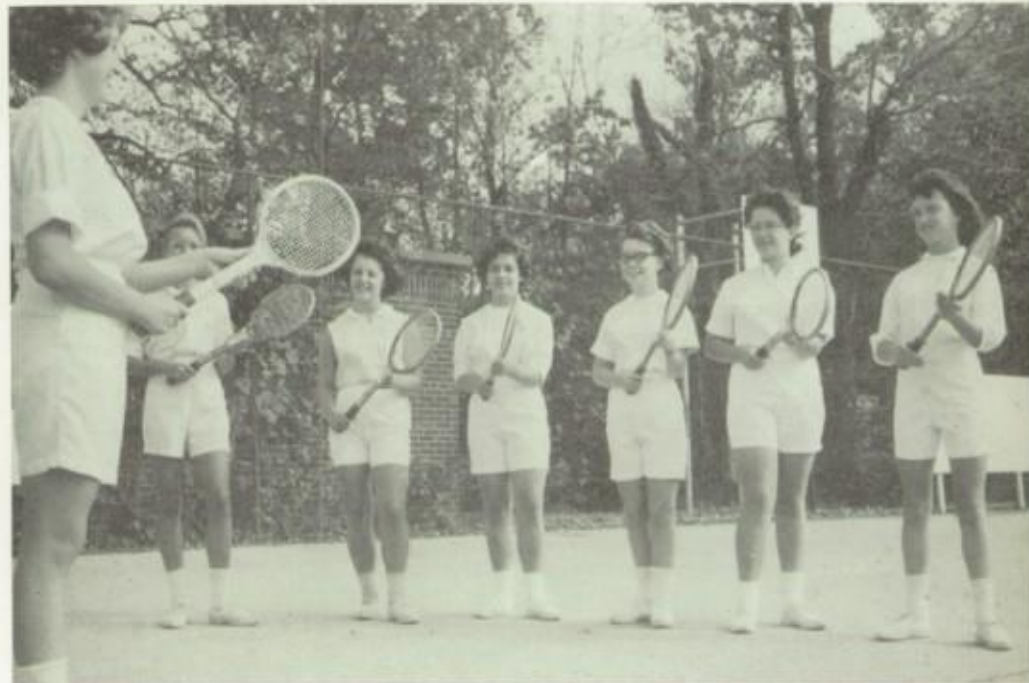

The sunny afternoon induced Phyllis Rose, Yvette McCollum, Diane Clements, and Patty Cunningham to enjoy a game of shuffleboard.

On court, girls!

Tennis, more than any other sport, brings out the personality of the participant. To the shy girl it presents opportunities for friendship as she meets each new opponent. For the athletic girl, there is the chance to match her talent against that of girls from other schools.

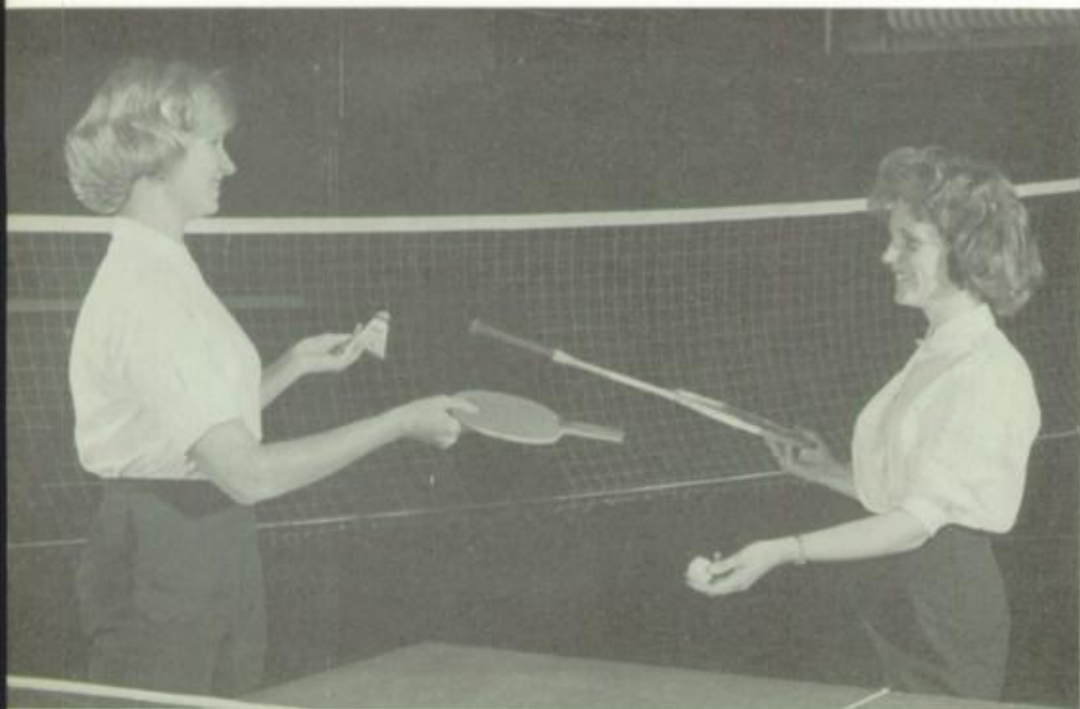

Following an exhilarating tennis match, Gale Cole, Carol Ramsey, and Ann Schleper, tired but happy, put their racquets away to go home.

Explaining the proper forehand grip to teammates is Karen Rupe.

Love ... fifteen ... thirty ... forty ... game! Members of the tennis team get smashing serves and winning volleys from observing as well as playing.

Badminton and ping-pong managers, Jackie Fricke and Sandy Babst, are amused as they realize that a combined season causes confusion.

Framing the GAA team listings, Donna Rathkamp proudly displays her work as bowling manager.

Individual sports promote skill and interest

Sports a-plenty here for everyone! Ping-pong, badminton, bowling, golf, and archery. Take your choice as did many energetic girls who crowded the gym giving badminton birdies a beating and slamming ping-pong balls into far corners. Girls learned that "A straight line is the shortest distance between two points." As they eagerly practiced knocking down pins, breaking par, and hitting the bull's eye. Whizzing through a successful season in G.A.A. would not have been accomplished without the guidance of the gym teachers who helped make fun and enjoyment available for each girl participating in individual sports.

Sandy Morgan, Mary Scheidt, Alice Witte, and Nancy Weithe anticipate a keen competition.

"Here it is," shouts Paula Heckman, following a search for her lost ball. After learning the fundamentals of the game from Mr. Siekman, golf instructor, Paula and Sandy Stegner became Western Hills' entries in the Spring Sports Day at Lunken Playfield.

Western back Ray Childs is downed as he sweeps Withrow's right end.

Coach Cobb plans strategy with co-captains.

Grid season opens a year

West High this year played good, hard football but ended up with a disappointing 2-8 record. Lack of experience hurt the hilltop crew, as many juniors had never started a varsity game before. The fact that the young Mustangs also lacked speed made them quite vulnerable to sweeps and other wide plays. Opening the season Greenhills turned back the eager young Westerners with a 20 point fourth quarter onslaught. Following two more losses to Taft and Withrow, West Hi notched its only victories, back to back triumphs over Hughes and Aiken. Western next encountered Walnut Hills, against whom the team played a good first half, only to be outplayed and beaten after the intermission. After being thrashed by Cental, the Mustangs ventured to Oak Hills, where they played what very well could have been their best game, only to fall before the HCL Champs. Woodward used four Clem Turner touchdowns to top Western and capture PHSL grid championship. The season closed as West Hi fell before oft-beaten arch rival Elder in the Annual Turkey Day Classic. Experience gained this year however, should improve the fortunes for the Mustangs next year.

Future plans bright for reserve gridders

This year's reserve football team finished a successful fourth place in the P.H.S.L. despite a 3-win, 4-loss record. The season was a considerable comedown, however, from last year's fine 6-1-1 ledger. A lack of breaks was a leading cause for the deceptive record. The team had a very tight defense, but their offense was slightly lacking, and was hampered severely with the promotion of fullback Jack Reynolds to the varsity squad early in the season. Opening the season the Colts notched an 8-0 win over Central followed by a severe 20-0 loss to Walnut Hills. The Colts avenging last year's only loss, squeaked past Aiken 8-0 only to lose to Withrow 12-0, the Colts bounced back winning 10-8 over favored Hughes. Although the season came to a discouraging end, promise of a fine varsity future shown through hard work of sophomores Mike Schott, Robert Brichweg, and Dave Heiss.

Greyhounds take fifth in tough PHSL

Led by senior Dave Garner, this year's cross-country team finished fifth in the P.H.S.L. standings. While the Greyhounds placed fourth, fifth and fifth in the three P.H.S.L. meets at Avon Fields, Dave managed to run in the top five in all three events. In the Triangular Meet, Dave captured a first place rating while the Greyhounds finished second behind Elder. In spite of Dave's fine work, the Greyhounds finished the season a distant fifth behind Walnut Hills. This year's record was a comedown compared to last year's when the squad, led by district champion Bob Adams, finished third. Although Dave dominated the Mustangs, some fine running was also exhibited by seniors Bill Weber and junior Paul Keiser. The reserve squad also finished fifth in the P.H.S.L. behind the running of seniors Fred Vollat and Tom Porter.

Powerful PHSL too much for Mustangs

This year, West Hi's basketball team ended the season with a 3-16 record. The campaign, however, featured fine shooting and high scoring by senior forward Ron Evans, who consistently led the Mustangs in scoring and many times captured game high honors. After opening with twin setbacks to rivals Oak Hills and Elder, the Mustangs took their first win, a one point barn-burner against Harrison. Western next lost to Central and walloped Aiken before venturing into the Tigers' den where Coach John Huheey's always tough Withrow team scored 112 points to overpower the Mustangs. The Westerners finally lost six times before whipping Central for the third and last triumph of the year. The second time certainly was not a charm against Withrow, whose PHSL and District champs started a second Western losing streak, this one for seven games. Though the season was a disappointment for the Mustangs, there will be several veterans returning who should make Western Hills a much improved team next year.

Reserve cagers post best record in years

West Hi's reserve basketball team finished a successful fifth place in the P.H.S.L. The team, posting a 9-9 tally. Despite the good defense and offense, the Mustangs were hampered by a lack of height and an inability at the free-throw line. Opening the season, the team scored a 38-32 triumph over Oak Hills, followed by a 44-29 thrashing at the hands of Elder reserves. Five wins resulted out of the next six games, but an 8-game tailspin followed in which one game was salvaged despite some of the teams best techniques. Finishing in a blaze, the Mustangs scored consecutive victories over Hughes and Aiken. Guard Mike Schott was high scorer with a 10 point per game average, while center Rod Thomas and forward Dave Heiss provided efficient rebounding and also scoring. Coach Ganzmiller predicts a very bright varsity future with Schott, Thomas, Heiss, and Mike Jockers providing the nucleus of a fine team.

Wrestling adds excitement to sports curriculum

Mustang grappler John Hesselbeck struggles to keep his hold on Larry Waldrop as their teammates root during a practice wrestling session.

This year Western Hills has added the exciting sport of wrestling to the calendar. Though the season was supposed to extend from November to March it was curtailed because of football. The sport of wrestling involves leverage and control of an opponent. The aim is to get the shoulders of your opponent down to the mat for two seconds. If the match does not end with the opponent in a pin, the opponent with the most points wins by decision of the referees. Points are obtained by a take down, a reverse, a pin, or an escape. One match consists of three periods of two minute durations. One meet is made up of eleven matches according to weight. The weight divisions range from 106 pounds to the heavy weight of 188 pounds. Mike Mazzie, the undefeated champion, Bill Deas, and Carl Henke were the most outstanding team members this year. Coach Cobb believes that with more experience the team will be ready for tough competition next year.

Maroon W loses to faculty again! When will they triumph?

Coach Ganzmiller goes high against the Maroon W.

Another year of fun and fellowship was enjoyed by the members of Maroon "W". Composed of boys who had enough desire and drive to earn a varsity letter, Maroon "W" was led this year by officers John Hader, Dan Hodson, Gary Kaiser, and Carl Henke. The first major activity sponsored by the club was the annual Maroon "W"-Faculty game highlighted by the "expensive" uniforms which the faculty wore. With another defeat at the hands of the agile but deceptive faculty, the boys determined to put a stop to the everlasting winning streak of their "superiors" next year. The second major event was the annual spring dance, the Dream of Maroon and Cream held in late May. The season drew to an end with the election of next year's officers.

Junior Hi and Intramural competitions are lively

Junior high and intramural sports again enjoyed successful seasons. Opening the school year, the freshmen gridgers again proved a disappointment, as they finished a poor sixth place with a 1-6 record. A successful basketball season followed football. A fine 14-4 ledger was rewarded with a third place finish in the PHSL. Going to the tournament finals, the 7th and 8th grade team also finished a winning roundball campaign. Following the varsity's example, the frosh swimmers ranked third in the PHSL meets after they captured two first-place finishes earlier. The season concluded with a promising performance by the track team. In the second year of intramural activity not only football, basketball, swimming, and track were offered, but also many competitive sports as bowling, volleyball, waterball, chess, horseshoes, ping-pong, checkers, and weight lifting. The activities produced a very large turnout this year due to the expanded curriculum. Banners or ribbons were rewarded for a winning performance and each boy received points for his activities. The main objectives of the program are to teach fundamentals and rules of the sports and to give every boy a chance to participate in some activity.

Mermen finish a third successful season

In one of West Hi's most successful swimming seasons, West Hi finished a close second to Walnut Hills in the PHSL. In the S.W. Ohio District Meet, the Mermen captured another very encouraging second behind St. X. During the season the Mermen finished second, five times and were frontrunners in four meets. In the State Championship Meet, Neil Krueger, the only scorer, placed third in the backstroke to put West Hi in thirteenth place among sixty-eight other schools. At Miami relays, the 200 yard backstroke relay team broke the 1:54.5 record with a 1:53.7. PHSL records were broken by Neil Krueger in the 100 yard backstroke with 59.7, taking 1.7 seconds off the old record. Neil was selected to the All-Ohio Swimming Team by The Ohio High School Swimming Coaches Association. Ralph Faulkner broke the 400 yard freestyle record with 4:31.5, over the old record of 4:32.6. Considering the potential at the beginning of the season the team progressed better than expected.

Track success demands skill, coordination, and speed

A run, a jump, and "head over heels" goes Dave Scroggins, straining vigorously to clear new heights, which could mean a first place win.

This year the Western Hill's track team consists of eight returning lettermen and seventeen newcomers. Early in March these boys started a vigorous training period with fundamental coaching in track and field events. Since many 1963 lettermen had graduated, this year's cinder team faced a year of rebuilding. In most events the boys were lacking in experience although some showed promise in the shotput and broad jump. Though West Hi took only fifth last year in the PHSL, this year's team started the season with considerable enthusiasm. Letterman D. Garner led the eight distance men with J. Ferguson heading the sprinters.

Stretching every fiber, Tom Porter, Roge Waddell, and Bill Henry clear the hurdles in an even stride and head to the next.

ROW ONE: R. Kirkendahl, C. Smith, B. Macke, D. Gurley, B. Fellens, F. Vollat, D. Breen, B. Henry, T. Willmoth, J. Ferguson, T. Porter. ROW TWO: B. Barlage, D. Buteler, K. Carter, R. Dettmer, M. Schott, R. Childs, R. Wirmel, B. Rueger, B. Deas, P. Keiser. ROW THREE: M. Ritsch, D. Fread, R. Waddell, T. Kostopolus, M. Beretz, B. McMullin, B. Neat, H. Zeigler. ROW FOUR: Coach Bathiany, C. Lineback, W. Binder, B. Krimpleman, B. Searcy, J. Bonkowski, D. Schaetzle, J. Scheidt, D. Scroggins.

Paul Keiser vaults upward, over with ease.

Jack Ferguson, Fred Vollat, Ron Dettmer, and Terry Willmouth, lunge over the finish line.

Doubles star Bob Decher makes a smash at the net.

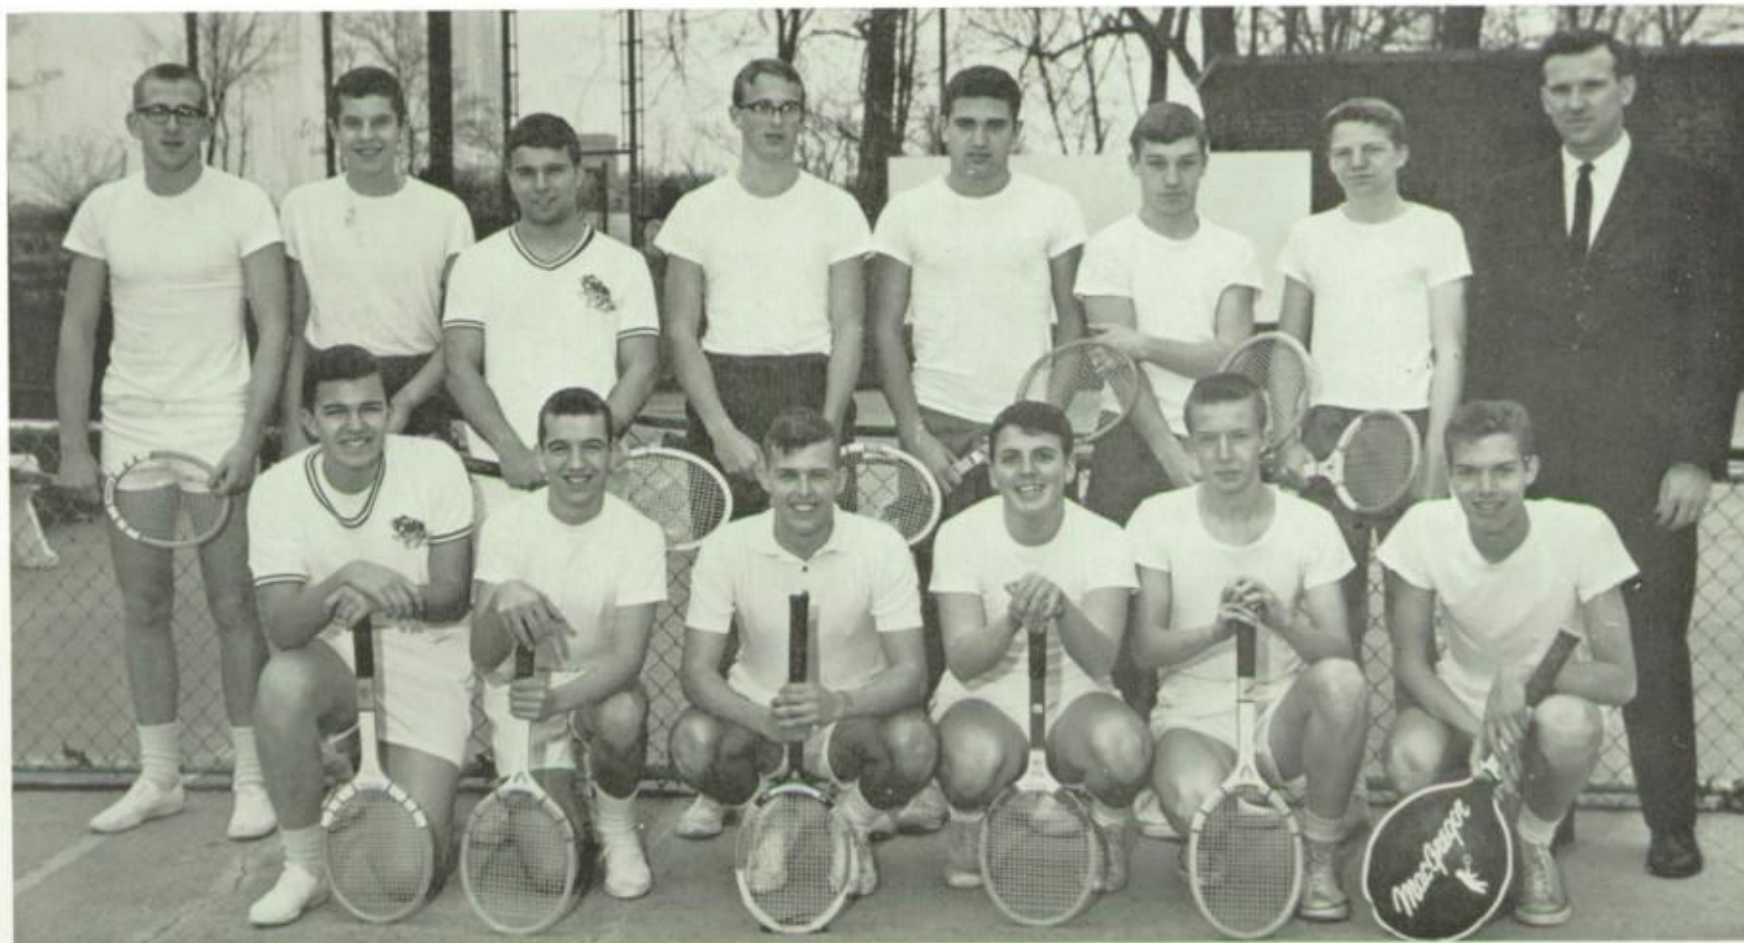

Mustang netters likely to improve last year's record

This year Western Hills tennis team combined many veterans with some talented newcomers. This group of improved players gave the Mustangs a big lift toward a good season. The veterans were Jim Eger, John Nenninger, first and second singles; Ron Schmiedeker, Bob Decher, first doubles; and Steve Glimpse and Larry Borderding, second doubles. The only newcomer in the top seven sophomore whiz was Rod Thomas, while other sophomores Dave Evans, Dave Mahlman, and Barry Webb came close to varsity form. The team had a slow start, because of the lack of a coach, but after head basketball coach Rain volunteered, the Mustangs then started to work out and improve on their form.

Jim Eger displays the form which won him the first-singles position.

Putters perfect skill for a rough schedule

The whack of a ball, the familiar cry of "Fore", and the frustrated screaming of many golfers is an awakening sign of spring at West Hi. The excitement of the golf course brought twenty-three linksmen who competed for the top four positions. Operating without a coach, the boys organized the squad, set up the practices and the matches with other schools. With the experience acquired last spring by juniors Terry Mire and Greg Taylor and senior Mark Bailey, West Hi can be assured of beating last year's fourth place finish. As last season, the Mustangs expect the toughest competition from PHSL rivals Woodward and Withrow.

With a look of frustration and disgust, Greg Taylor observes his ball, lying behind the tree.

ROW ONE: R. Evans, W. Collins, J. Schroeder, F. Meier; D. Schneider, B. Lackey, K. Selby, K. Ford, D. Hodson, J. Bauman. ROW TWO: T. Thompson, R. Schallick, J. Moores, J. Mintsoulis, D. Brannon, T. Bridges, M. Sloan, R. Koppenhoefer, D. Eyrich, R. Ruehl, R. Nadler, Coach Hauck.

Baseball team hopes to end season on a winning note

Baseball, the last sport of the season, concluded the sports curriculum on a very happy note. After falling from a district championship to a 13-8 third place finish last year, the Mustangs came back strong, once again to dominate their PHSL rivals. The nucleus of the team was composed of ten returning lettermen and two newcomers from the reserve squad. First-line pitching, a strong-point of the team, was handled well by Barry Lackey, John Bauman, Ken Selby, and catcher Wayne Collins who did an expert job behind the plate. The infield of Ron Koppenhoefer, Jim Moores, Ron Evans and Keith Ford and the outfield trio of Dan Brannon, Fred Meier, and Danny Schneider offered both power and defensive prowess. Starting the season off, both pitching and power were in evidence as the Mustangs scalped Oak Hills and Aiken, 12-1 and 5-0 respectively. After dropping several close games, the Mustangs ended the season with another strong finish.

It's a fun-filled, whirling world at West Hi

In the rush which follows the ringing of the bell, students find their way to the world of activities. Autumn days bring the boys out—trotting around the track; girls crowd the hockey field. When the fields are covered with snow, the rapid pace continues indoors. Oklahoma! swells through the halls; and the staccato of type-writers emanates from Breeze and Annual rooms.

Amphibious students keep the chlorine churning in the pool while their friends bat, dodge, pass and volley balls in the gym. With spring busting out all over the track and baseball teams vie with the first robins for a place on the fields to begin again the crazy race known as high life.

Effort, work, talents yield praise and achievement

Every individual eventually experiences one exuberating moment from the countless number that pass. This thrilling moment may come as the result of study and work in the classroom or it may come in competition with others in extra-curricular activities. Those who excel in scholastic achievement have the thrill of being elected to membership in Cum Laude. To every girl fortunate enough to be chosen as queen of a special function or given the title of "Miss . . ." comes that special joy of reigning. Election of Student Council or class officers initiates a feeling of pride within the individual and brings the privilege of leading student bodies. Essay contests offer honors in literary endeavors to those with creative abilities. Whatever the achievement, it cannot be as exciting to anyone else as it is to the individual who has succeeded.

"It's hard to choose an Odd Ball Queen. They're all such striking beauties."

On March 5, Western Hills chapter of Cum Laude welcomed ten new members at its first tapping. Awarded their pins were seniors Louis Gloystein, Dohrman Byers, Jack Schroder, Susan Vogel, Linda Bushman, Sally Kocher, Janice Eshman, Gail Davis, Sherry Rider and Alvina Owen.

Spirited vagabond creates joy in "The Silver Whistle"

Oliver Erwenter, a tramp with a heart, brings renewed life to a group of old people in "The Silver Whistle", first play given by the West High Drama Department this year. Posing as an inmate in an old folks home, Mr. Erwenter (Bill Ryan) soon brings the down-cast residents out of their hum-drum routine with his genial manner. The audience delights in the droll antics of such characters as flirty Mrs. Sampler (Ann Rush), hen-pecked Mr. Beebe (Steve Wulff), and Miss Hoadly (Carolyn Haas) who often sneaks a taste of Scotch. Miss Tripp (Donna Langdon) creates the love interest with her devotion to Rev. Watson (Phil Durham), the pastor of the local church. Other members of the cast included Chris Wurster, Paul Bailey, Stephanie Chenoweth, Sally Kocher, Greg Kerher, Tim Waller, Dan Schenck, and Dave Radkey.

The old folks watch horrified, as drunken Mrs. Hoadly barges unexpectedly into the courtyard and collapses over the astonished Reverend Watson.

Continuous effort produces Oklahoma

The glamor of stage and the excitement of performance inspire West High's Thespian Troupe. United in some line of stage production the large enthusiastic Troupe not only furthers dramatic interest among students, but also plans an active yearly program. With Bill Bryant as president, Thespians included among this year's activities a Christmas party, a Hawaiian Luau, a trip to Ohio State University to see Carousel, a contest excursion to Columbus, many unforgettable cast parties, and summer plans for a convention trip to Indiana University. Although the hi-light of this year was the fun-filled musical Oklahoma, both other plays, The Silver Whistle and All The Way Home were successes. In the midst of the busy air, however, Thespians found time to stop, reorganize and begin again with new life and vigor.

"No! No! Start over again!" Mr. Brown stoutly faces the problems that accompany directing a play.

More hands means more work done! Hammering and sawing, the entire stage crew prepares for the big production this year.

"The Farmer and the Cowman" should be friends, but Andrew Carnes (Paul Bailey) keeps a paternal eye on off-spring Ado Annie (Susie Ruehlman.)

With devilish abandonment, the ever "friendly" cowboys and the "congenial" farmers clash.

In Laurey's dream, Mike and Carolyn dramatize the beautiful "Dream Ballet."

It's a beautiful mornin' but, as Curly tells Aunt Eller, everything's Not goin' his way. He "jist cain't figger" how Laurey can resist him.

Charming, amusing "Oklahoma" praised by all

"O-K-L-A-H-O-M-A" The nervous strains of the combined choruses echo through the hushed auditorium as the cast plunges into its first "real" performance of the popular Broadway musical. The hours of preparation and anticipation come to a happy conclusion when leading characters Curly, Laurey and Aunt Eller join the choruses for the rousing title song. Included in the varied cast are pretty Ado Annie and her favorite but jealous beau, Will Parker; a Persian peddler, Ali Hakim, who tries unsuccessfully to dodge the grasps of eternal marriage; and villain Judd Fry, who waits the perfect moment to murder his rival Curly.

"Why should a girl who is healthy and strong babble like a baby . . ." sings Laurey (Donna Langdon) while her understanding neighbors listen.

"That girdle surely won't fit ya, Will!" Ali Hakim (Chris Wurster) infuriates Will Parker (Bill Bryant) with biting sarcastic mockery.

"Marry? Ado Annie? Me? Now just wait a minute, Mr. Carnes!" Smooth talker Ali squirms from the point of Andrew Carnes' gun.

"You better stay away from Laurey if you know whats good for you!" warns Judd.

"Poor Judd is Dead" lament Mike Morton and Phil Durham in their sorrowful duet.

"Oh What A Beautiful Morning," sings the cast for the last time. The house lights go up and the audience has a feeling of expected gaiety.

Superior rating for third consecutive year!

"Dim those lights! Heads up and backs straight. Point your bow! Ready? Roll the drums! Curtain please!" These words, whispered by director Andrew Brady, echo behind the curtain on opening night. Players are excited, a little tense—and scared, but eager to perform to their utmost. As the performance progresses they relax a little, proud of the rich and mellow sounds which they are creating. The skill with which the Western Hills Senior Orchestra performs does not come automatically, however, for the director, Mr. Brady, and the members of the orchestra work constantly to achieve perfection of interpretation, perfect tuning, and dynamics control. The group holds nightly rehearsals in preparation for the annual Christmas and Thanksgiving assemblies, the spring and winter concerts, and the State Contest. This year, for the third consecutive time, the orchestra received the highest rating possible, that of "superior."

Vitality keeps earnest Annual Staff going

With tons of rubber cement, dummy paper, rulers, pencils, and oceans of pictures to be mounted; the Annual Staff is off and running—soliciting ads, planning pictures, writing captions, copy, heads—work, work, working on the 63-64 Annual. The constant pressure and frequent late work nights wore the stable nerves of conscientious staff members to a frazzle, but with the incentive to create another All-American book the fifty staff members kept toiling to present all aspects of the 1963-64 school year in words and pictures.

Difficult decisions and weighty discussions involve the sponsors and editors of the Annual Staff. Selecting material for the opening section are Miss Weber and Mr. Love, sponsors; Pam DeTurk, Art Editor; Jennifer Ruehl, Photography Editor; Donna Eckert, Business Manager; Janice Eshman, Editor.

Providing the school with good reading material, the annual staff sells pocketbooks. Gary Harvey, Claude Rost, and Nita Arnold assist.

Typists Judy Stout, Sue Spencer and Connie McDaniels aid senior section editors Jan Mauer, and Judy Rohr.

Work night for the Annual means food but in spite of the array prepared by Donna Stayin, Judy Deas, Suzi Gath, and Nancy Lloyd, writers Phil Berghausen and Dohrman Byers fail to be disturbed.

"When is the next picture scheduled?" Tom Schiff inquires. Mike Allen nods in uncertainty while frustrated Bill Ryan, Linda Bushman, and Trudy Kolb write copy.

Counting with advisor Miss Walters about layouts are "Breeze" Co-editors Virginia Evans and Nancy Whitehurst and associate editor Marge Fox.

A good "Breeze" is born of constant teamwork

"Crop that cut and get rid of that tombstoning!" Fourteen times a year, Breeze editors fit pictures, editorials, stories, and headlines together to produce our All-American newspaper. Assisting the editors is the Journalism class, the members of which act as reporters. Once a member has been assigned a story, he must track down the facts, write the article, and turn it in by a definite deadline. The editors then revise the articles and arrange them into an attractive layout. Every issue is entirely planned and designed by the various editors under the leadership of Nancy Whitehurst, and Virginia Evans, co-editors.

Planning is the key word! Page editors, Kathy Horner, Lynn Pierson, Kathy Scott, Donna McCrosky, and June Forester prepare for the coming issue of the Breeze.

"Femininity" reigns on Girls' Day

"Woman suffrage, initiated by the nineteenth amendment, has enabled women to take over many positions in the world today," confirmed Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic. "Girls have moved in giant steps from the amendment to the success of Girl's Week," he added. On Girls' Day, March 4, twelve senior girls, elected by their classmates, filled the administrative posts at Western Hills. From first bell until the final minutes of the day each girl consulted her counterpart on the matters concerning the responsibilities of the position. While the seniors worked at school, thirteen junior girls participated with representatives from 22 other schools in activities at City Hall. One girl from each school vied for a position in council and city administration. All the representatives attended City Council meeting, having the opportunity to observe city government. At the conclusion of the day, the city and school officials commended the girls on a job well done.

Spirit, activity, and enthusiasm keynote Pep Club and Y-Teens

To grow as a person in friendship with all people and to grow in the knowledge and love of God—these are the goals of Y-Teens. Activities of West High Y-Teens this year included a visit from a Cuban refugee, a potato chip sale and the Y-Teens Summer Tours in late July. Promoting school spirit is the main objective of Pep Club. This year West High members had a full agenda including a Canteen, a rooting section for fall sports, a candy apple sale, and the awarding of charms at their annual picnic. Life was joyous, fun-filled, and busy for Pep Club members all year.

Learning to cope with international problems, Y-teens greet a Cuban refugee at a meeting.

Ambition characterizes Band Letter Club

Band Letter Club is the spark behind West High's lively band. Always a strong school spirit group, the letter club organizes the band members, both rookies and veterans, and promotes many activities. Under the leadership of officers Jack Schroder, Tim Waller, Richard Klein, Marsha Rowland, and Roger Crafts, this year's band letter club included among its activities, a canteen, candy apple sales, concerts, and the annual Band-Orchestra Picnic.

Busily preparing for the distribution of letters at the annual spring picnic are the energetic Band Letter Club officers: Marsha Rowland, Rick Klein, Rod Crafts, Jack Schroeder, and Tim Waller.

Health careers-- inspire a successful future

To gain insight into careers in health is the main purpose of Health Careers Club. Under the guidance of Mrs. Lilly, advisor, and Donna McInerney, President, the club began its activities in the fall with a Health Careers Day. At this, each member was allowed to forsee the duties involved in her specialized career. Other events highlighting the year included a Red Cross Drive with Student Council and several hygienic specialists speaking at monthly meetings.

Besides having activities for fun, Hi-Y does things that require deep thought and devotion. Attending church the members share a feeling of fellowship.

Religion, service, and fun highlight Hi-Y's year

Through the year Hi-Y members aim for their high goals—to create, extend, and maintain through the school and community high standards of Christian character. They meet once a week at the YMCA to plan a program of athletics, service, religion, and social counts. The highlight of the year is their direct participation in the youth and government program at Columbus.

Merchandising Club combines education, fun

For those students who wish to gain better insight into the business career, the Merchandising Club helps its members to learn to buy and sell, and to acquaint them with modern-day retailing programs and procedures. With the guidance of advisor, Mr. Lust, the club combines education with fun through field trips, hayrides, picnics, and a bowling party to close another successful year.

FBLA and FTA excel

Under the leadership of advisor Mrs. Nester and President, Kathy Weber, the Future Business Leaders Club witnessed a highly successful year. Newly installed in the Western Hills extra-curricular program, F.B.L.A. Activities included several bake sales for money-making projects and a state-wide convention held in Cincinnati during February. Likewise rewarding, were the experiences gained by members of the Future Teachers of America Club. Through monitoring Junior High study halls future teachers were given the opportunity to become better acquainted with the teaching profession. Other activities of the club consisted of a canteen dance and a luncheon for the faculty members.

Busy FTA members Linda McVay, Barbara Young, and Kathy Maichele prove to be capable monitors in the study halls.

Language clubs thrive at West Hi

Parlez-vous Francais? French students have discovered their language more interesting as they took part in the festivities of French Club this year. Officers helped to plan a year full of fun and activities which included a bake sale, the decorations of the classroom and a May picnic to close the year. Latin Club members were also busy during the '63-'64 season. Officers organized activities, the first of which was the movie Quo Vadis shown in the school auditorium. Club members sold charms during the Christmas season and sponsored a canteen. To end the year, guest speakers appeared at the annual club banquet.

Clubs spark the junior High-Life

With the opening of a new school year, the idea of clubs sparks junior high school students into lively participation with their fellow class members. There is a wide variety of clubs to choose from since almost every activity that is important in senior high has an equally important junior high counterpart. Thus, a student may get an early start in the activities which interest him most. Although there is not enough space in the Annual to include pictures of all junior high activities, these are many active junior high organizations. Particularly active at this level are newswriting, cheerleading, pep club and student council. Finding social entertainment joining various clubs junior high students develop fine interests.

Initiation into the Junior Honor Society symbolizes an individual's work and effort, his eagerness to excel and his promise to further his knowledge through study.

Activity punctuates the Student Council year

Whether promoting school spirit, planning for the Homecoming dance, or selling Easter lilies, Student Council members are always bursting with activity. Backing many of the school's drives, campaigns and elections, Student Council members make sure that each event is well planned and well publicized by posters and announcements to insure that it is a success. The membership has continued the usual customs of canteens, Thanksgiving baskets, selling calendars, decorating the Christmas tree, collecting used clothing, and selling rolls after exams. A new project proposed this year was the "Code of Dress." Set up by the Student-Teacher-Parent Board, it stressed the proper attire each student should wear to school. With activity as the keyword, the Council spent a successful year under the leadership of officers Ron Carlson, President, Carolyn Seitz, Vice-President, Jo Anne Greiser, Secretary, and Sherry Grow, Treasurer.

End of a fascinating year

Trying to capture fleeting moments of joy shared at West Hi, seniors excitedly leaf through their annuals and collect signatures.

brings expectations for the future

Creamy pastels, sweet scents of carnations and daisies paint the lasting scene of a well-known play. It is the end of the year and through the gaiety which springs in the hearts of seniors as graduation day approaches there is a sombre note as if each memory-filled moment will last but a fleeting minute more, then vanish into eternal adulthood. Where have the twelve short years gone? We recall our crazy antics as rookies, our pride as freshmen, finally our joy at the first prom.

Now the moment of graduation faces us. Yet each one of us experiences this important moment differently. The high school years have come to an end, the activities cease and we stand alone, a product of eighteen years of study.

Starting the procession of excited seniors for their last walk around the school, Daisy Chain members herald the beginning of Class Day.

Hearts are joyous, spirits are elated, as the departing senior class ends the year with the traditional Class Day procession.

In Memory Of a Principal

"We are optimistic because we believe we recognize our own shortcomings. When we discover our own errors, when we see that we lost wars that were won, when we experience strife between economic, racial, and religious groups—then we learn that new methods must be explored. In the evaluation of these new methods lies our hope for the future—our optimism."

These words, fraught with meaning for us today, were written for the 1948 Annual by Mr. Rayburn W. Cadwallader, Western Hill's beloved "Mr. Cad," whose death on February 6 saddened his thousands of former students. Mr. Cadwallader, a graduate of Wilmington College, came to Western Hills to be its principal in 1946. During Mr. Cadwallader's ten years as principal, Western Hills received many recognitions for academic advancements and student achievements. "Mr. Cad's" enthusiasm for West High helped create an exciting school spirit. He was an ardent rooter at all the sporting events, and seldom missed a class dinner, dance or banquet. As a member of the Society of Friends, Mr. Cadwallader saw every one as a friend with personal potential as an individual. He believed that the school had the responsibility of preparing the individual for more effective personal living and of integrating him into the social, economic, and political phases of being a citizen and a neighbor.

Acknowledgements

Sighs of relief and shouts of joy . . . the Annual is finally in print, bound and covered, and ready to be viewed. The staff has labored to correlate art work and layout style to copy and pictures in order to match and to blend with a free and light, yet broad human value — that people are unique beings, each with his own ideas and talents. Ideas were long in coming many times, and the staff couldn't have produced the book alone (though, being unique and unusual beings, we tried!). So to these people, we owe our deep thanks and gratitude:

Dr. H. James Takao, for his invaluable aid in helping the staff capture a certain special mood for the opening section by showing us his Japanese scrolls and letting us use his precious Japanese dolls for the picture on page 4; Ginny Evans, for lending the staff her family's valuable Japanese guide books and references on the country's history and culture.

The National Red Cross, who generously allowed us to use the photo on page 15, of Mr. Kennedy greeting teenage Red Cross representatives from all parts of the world; Mr. A. J. Havlovic for the picture of Mr. Cadwallader on page 184; The Post-Time Star for the photo on page 33; Mr. Claude Rost for the football team formal picture; Tom Schiff who took countless photos for almost every section, and who valiantly came to our rescue in emergencies (such as the time we lost the track pic!); Mr. McTamney and Mr. Busch of Schelleto's for senior and activity photographs.

Circle Engraving Company of Indianapolis, and The Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas, who both came through, as always, with excellent workmanship; Mr. James Kilgore of Kingscraft, who helped to make our original, fragile design into an attractive cover for the book.

The administration, faculty, and staff of Western Hills for their help with underclass pictures, their patience with our picture days and their understanding of the dazed, harried, and/or vague expressions most of the staff wore as deadline time neared.

Mrs. Goodfellow, who faithfully (and a bit bleary-eyed) transferred the minute lines of this year's art work onto the necessary cellulose flip sheets; Mr. Love for his staunch supervision of the book's money matters, even with the help (?) of a broken adding machine.

Mr. Russell Benson of Indianapolis who was invaluable in helping the staff with layouts, design and superb photography, inspiration and encouragement; Duncan Schiedt, Mr. Benson's assistant, who patiently submitted to the staff's wild photography suggestions.

Miss Weber, our advisor, who put up with foreign languages cluttering her boards, and an unexpected (and rainy) trip to Indianapolis with the staff. She would always bring the Editorial Board down to earth when we became carried away with our own ideas; she coordinated the activities of all the rest of the staff. Our guiding influence, Miss Weber receives our deepest thanks.

GUIDEPOSTS FOR HAPPIER LIVING

1. BE CONSIDERATE

Develop a sincere interest in people, their lives and their problems. Be understanding, and never build personal success at the expense of others.

2. HELP THOSE IN NEED

You will find few experiences so rewarding in life as the times you give a helping hand to folks in need.

3. CONTINUE TO LEARN

Stay mentally active, intellectually curious, receptive to new ideas. Education is a wondrous process continuing throughout life.

4. CULTIVATE THRIFT

Save regularly from the start. Thrift gives you an important extra margin for progress . . . for security . . . for success.

Here he comes rushing . . .
to the assistance of the West Hi Annual Staff!

Mr. Benson! In the Indianapolis 500? Well no. He just looks that way as he races from school to school, helping distressed annual staffs.

So what if the rivers are flood swollen! Who cares if the snow is ten inches deep! The gales of the wind nor the blister of the sun's heat can keep Russell Benson from helping the Western Hills Annual Staff with its yearbook problems. To him we bring our precious gifts: layout paper, pencils, rulers, graphite, and picture ideas. Our cheery, welcome (?) presence sets him off showing us the technics of layout, design, copy continuity, and illustrative photography; but can we keep him for long? He's a constantly running camera—as soon as we have him, he's off, and who knows where?—taking educational or commercial films, helping other high schools and colleges with their yearbooks and view-books, and filming pictures for innumerable enterprizes, from Hong Kong to Kansas City!

"When we capture our friend (which is seldom) we treat him well," admit members of Annual Staff.

OUR EXPLANATION OF HAIKU POETRY

Haiku, the Japanese form of poetry used by the 1964 Annual Staff to illustrate its theme of individualism, can be described as the distilled essence of poetry. It is, possibly, Japan's greatest esthetic achievement, and the better haiku presents two vivid images, one usually indicating a general or long enduring condition, the other a momentary preception. The meaning of all haiku, therefore, is never clear, more exactly, it is left for the reader to gather the wisdom himself from the stated truth.

Sometimes called hokku, haiku was originally the first part of a two person literary game, tanka, but in the thirteenth century the terse, witty first part became so popular that it developed by itself.

The leader of this development was Matsuo Basho, a Zen Buddhist, who not only developed the style but also left the imprint of Zen Buddhism on haiku forever. Haiku itself is a three line, seventeen syllable poem, the first and third lines having five syllables each, the second, seven. However, the translation from Japanese to English has required liberties in both measuring and construction. The poet Masuoku Shiki, of the nineteenth century, is the author of the verse the Annual Staff selected. He was the last of the great haiku poets and so popularized the style that today there are thousands of haiku poets in Japan. The Annual Staff is deeply indebted to the Haiku Series of the Peter Pauper Press for their translation. They, along with Dr. Takao and Pam De Turk, made it possible for us to transmit the richness of Japan's culture to our readers.
